In brief

Lemontree fire

A fast-burning fire was reported raging Monday morning at Building 19 of the Lemontree Apartments in Van Buren Township.

According to Sup. Pat Cullin and a spokesperson at the apartment complex, fire department units from surrounding communities were summoned to help put out the blaze.

Five years ago, Lemontree was hit by a fire which inflicted extensive damage.

Building 19 is the most easterly structure in the apartment complex and faces the south service drive of the I-94 Expressway just west of Beckley Road.

Census count

Preliminary count by the Bureau of the Census shows that 24,802 persons live in the city of Romulus in 8,126 housing units.

The federal agency stressed that the figures are only preliminary and will be replaced later with final counts that may be different.

Word was received by Romulus from the Bureau of the Census earlier this month.

SEMTA schedule

SEMTA officials will announce its extended bus service to residents of Romulus at a special ceremony at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday (today) for elected city officials at the city hall.

The new 210 bus service will offer three morning trips from downtown Romulus, by way of Goddard Road, Wayne Road and Annapolis Road, to Detroit and return.

SEMTA will have one of its new advanced design buses on display for 15 minutes prior to the Wednesday ceremony. Coffee and doughnuts will be served inside the city hall at 10:15 a.m.

DetRo Recovery to sue city on sludge plant site rezoning

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Several new developments are taking place in the bid by DetRo Recovery of Detroit to build a sludge recovery plant in Romulus, the latest being a lawsuit against the city.

Letters were sent Monday by the law firm of Eleanor Cattron Smith of Detroit to a lengthy list of Romulus elected city officials, employees and residents informing them that they are to appear in Wayne County Circuit Court for the taking of oral depositions.

The letter stated that the list of witnesses was only a partial one. Named to appear for depositions are: ex-Mayor Terry Troutt; Clerk Leonard J. Folmar; Treasurer Beverly McAnally; Council Chairman Mary Ann Banks; councilmen Jimmy Raspberry and Edward Rush; state Rep. Edward Mahalak; Hyle Carmichael, the city's industrial coordinator;

Donald Treder, chairman of the city Planning Commission; Hulen Yates, Planning Commission member; Dave Sanders, city planner; Robert Plank, assistant DPW director; Mel Morgan, prominent local businessman; Carol Bales; and Thomas Demski.

Persons on the list were informed they are to appear in Wayne County Circuit Court at 9 a.m. Friday, Oct. 31, with depositions slated to continue on the following day, Saturday, Nov. 1.

Contacted Tuesday at his home, Kenneth Pearceall, president of DetRo, said the lawsuit will contest a recommendation by the city Planning Commission to the city Board of Appeals that the M-1 zoning on its proposed site near Ecorse Road and the C & O Railroad is not suitable for a sludge recovery plant.

Pearceall said DetRo contends operation of a sludge recovery plant does fall under usage of an M-1 light industrial zoning classification. DetRo wants to build its plant on 133 acres across from Detroit Allison Diesel on Ecorse Road.

The DetRo president was asked about rumors that the company actually had some 100 acres of land under option east of the city hall instead of the 36.88 acres it sought site plan approval for recently before the Planning Commission. The Planning Commission has

Auction nets $$$ and smiles

5 CETA employees rehired

Five of 12 CETA employees recently terminated by the city of Romulus have been put back on the payroll following a lively discussion at last week's city council session.

Some council members expressed irritation at not being notified of the rehiring by Mayor William M. Oakley, who accused that body of "playing games".

Although the item was not listed on the council agenda, it was brought to council's attention by Treasurer Beverly McAnally. She asked for authorization to sign the rehired employees' checks and questioned where the money to pay them was coming from.

Council, after discussion, approved a motion by Councilman Jimmy Raspberry, seconded by Councilman Ed Rush, to authorize payment of the five rehired CETA employees for two weeks.

At that time, the motion directed the mayor to have an amendment to the current budget prepared which would designate funds to be transferred to the general fund from anticipated revenues to pay the five employees.

The amendment would authorize salary payments to the five employees until the end of the current fiscal year.

After some council members and the treasurer said they had not been informed of the rehiring, Oakley accused council "of playing games". He said there was no reason to notify that body as the five positions were contained in the budget and sufficient funds were allocated to pay the five employees to the end of the fiscal year.

The mayor reminded council that it was his responsibility to come up with the money. He said when the funds run out, the five employees could then be considered for layoff.

Commenting on Thursday following the council meeting on the mayor's explanation that funds to pay the five employees can come from anticipated revenues, McAnally said, "The entire budget is based on anticipated revenues."

Since the city charter specifies that intent to transfer the funds must come a week before the actual transfer, the earliest date for the five employees to be paid would be Nov. 5. Passage of the amendment must await its submission to council by the mayor.

City receives 'bad' news: federal, state funds will be late

As if the city of Romulus doesn't have enough financial woes, now comes news that receipt of some $1.7 million in state and federal revenue sharing funds, and another $1.6 million in reimbursements due from the county for delinquent taxes, will be late.

Treasurer Beverly McAnally said Romulus will suffer "because the day-to-day operation of city government depends upon the reliability of getting state and federal funds."

She emphasized that late receipt of the total $3.3 million, plus a deficit of nearly $1 million in the 1980-81 budget, does not bode well for the city's financial operation.

For the current fiscal year, Romulus was anticipating $492,160 in federal revenue sharing funds. However, she was informed by a bulletin from the Michigan Municipal League that Congress had recessed for the election campaign without taking final action on release of federal revenue sharing monies.

Whether communities across the nation will get the funds they expect from revenue sharing remains in doubt.

According to the MML bulletin, "Finally, the post-election session (of Congress) will have many lame-duck members due to retirements and election defeats."

"In such circumstances, past support for GRS (general revenue sharing) cannot be taken for granted, given the controversy that continues to surround the program," the bulletin says.

In state shared revenues, Romulus was slated to receive $1,236,730 for the current fiscal year, McAnally said. But, latest word from Lansing indicates the next quarterly payment due the last of November may not be forthcoming until about the first of next year or after.

Also overdue is $1.6 million in delinquent taxes which the city receives from the county's revolving fund following summer tax collections, she said. Under current laws, the county reimburses communities like Romulus for 100 percent of delinquent taxes.

But, like many other governmental agencies, the county's revolving fund is in trouble also, said the treasurer.

With Congress not scheduled to reconvene until Nov. 12, 1980 after the general election, the MML bulletin is advising municipal officials to contact their senators and representatives in Congress before that time in efforts to get them to approve authorization of the GRS program, the treasurer explained.

School officials get pay raises

Salary increases for eight members of the central staff of the Romulus school district were approved last week by the school board.

The salary boosts were recommended to the board by Supt. William Bedell.

The two assistant superintendents — Marvin Fischer, in charge of curriculum, and Thomas Janack, maintenance and operations — each received 6½-percent raises, going from a yearly salary of $39,000 to $41,520.

Dr. Terrell LeCesne, personnel director, was given a 9½-percent salary boost from $36,500 to $40,150 a year. Dr. Bedell said LeCesne's percentage increase was greater because his salary was being brought up on a par with those for Fischer and Janack.

Five secretaries in the central office also received salary hikes. Secretary to the superintendent went from $16,130 to $18,273 a year, while the secretary to the personnel director was increased from $16,054 to $17,043 a year.

Of the three remaining secretaries, one was raised from $14,980 to $16,706, a second went from $13,000 to $14,588, and the third was increased from $15,078 to $16,821.

Dr. Bedell explained that some of the secretarial salary raises included inclusion of last year's cost of living allowance. Added to that amount was a percentage boost, he said.

ANP wins MPA awards

Miss Young's CUFA series tops

Associated Newspaper's Publisher David J. Willett announced this week that Carrie Young and Dennis G. Fassett, formerly of Associated, garnered three major awards for journalistic excellence in recent statewide and national journalism contests.

According to Willett, Ms. Young and Fassett captured an Honorable Mention for "Best Investigative Reporting" from the National Newspaper Association's Better Newspaper Contest, competing against daily and weekly newspapers of more than 5,000 circulation.

The two journalists also won a first place award for "Best Enterprise Story" in the Michigan Press Association's (MPA) 1980 journalism awards contest, and an honorable mention for "Best Local News Reporting" in the MPA contest.

The national award-winning story, submitted by Willett, was titled "Communities United For Action (CUFA): Help or Frustration," and was a series of stories detailing the operations of a problem-plagued government agency charged with assisting out-Wayne County's low-income elderly and handicapped citizens.

The four-part series which ran last year in all of Associated's six newspapers directly led to an FBI investigation into CUFA; to the firing of four high-ranking employees for payroll padding; and to the agency's ultimate closing for re-organization.

That series on CUFA also won the first place MPA award.

Young, 24, of Canton Township notched her fourth state award in this year's MPA competition, and garnered her first national award, while Fassett of Westland captured his third.

Both Ms. Young and Fassett have left Associated. Ms. Young left in December of 1979 shortly after completing the award-winning series on CUFA to accept the position of Executive Editor for CONQUEST, a statewide monthly newspaper serving Michigan's Senior and Handicapped Citizens.

In February of 1980, Fassett as Managing Editor of Associated resigned to assume new responsibilities with OMNICOM of Michigan, a local Cable Television company headquartered in Plymouth.

Freak car accident kills Romulus woman

Mrs. Sharon Szente, 33, of Romulus, was killed instantly shortly before 9 a.m. Thursday in a freak accident near I-75 and Six Mile Road.

State troopers reported that the victim's northbound car was struck on the roof and windshield by a 150-pound wheel and tire which had spun off the axle of a southbound tractor trailer.

Investigating officers said the wheel and tire first hit the center guard rail, shot up into the air about 40 feet and then came down on Mrs. Szente's automobile.

The truck was owned by a plastics company from Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

After being hit, her car struck another tractor trailer and the guard rail before rolling to a stop.

Campaign '80

Mahalak faces tough test in Raker

NOTE: With the November general election (Nov. 4) less than two weeks away, Associated Newspapers Inc. in an effort to inform its readers of the candidates for Congressional, state and county positions, is publishing candidate comparisons. The surveys provide the backgrounds of the various candidates, as well as what they feel are the issues in the respective campaigns.

This week we take a look at the 37th and 38th State Representative Districts.

In the 38th District incumbent Edward Mahalak is facing Roy Raker in balloting in the general election.

A 32-year resident of Huron Township, Raker is no newcomer to politics. Currently the Huron Township supervisor, Raker served a 2-year term as highway commissioner, six years on the Wayne County Farm Bureau Board of Directors, eight years as a township trustee and eight years as a township planning commissioner.

He sees the three tax proposals as an issue in the election and says that "all three proposals have some good points, but in the long run, I don't think these proposals will be as effective as is generally believed."

He also views Workman's Compensation as an issue, saying that as a "continual issue", it must be revised, if the state is to remain competitive with other states.

The general economic condition of the state also is playing a part in Raker's campaign, and the candidate feels he can more effectively represent the 38th District because "I have the time, ambition and enough experience at the local governmental level to be effective and truly represent the people of the district."

Born in Dearborn, Raker has spent all but two years of his life as a resident of Wayne County. Married, he and his wife Vera have five children — Michael, Karen, Timothy, Dale and Leslie — and one grandchild.

Raker has spent a large portion of his life farming near New Boston, spending some winter months as a local contractor, having mastered the art of wet plastering. He also worked for Dugan & Sons, a local lumber company, and for the Ford Motor Co.

A member of St. John Lutheran Church, Walter, he is a 30-year member of the Wayne County Farm Bureau, and active member of the Michigan United Conservation Club, Huron Sportsman Club and the Michigan Assessors Association.

In campaign literature Raker said: "As a former auto worker and UAW member, I understand the problems facing people in the urban and suburban parts of the district. As a farmer and township supervisor, I understand the decisions facing the agricultural and rural area in Wayne and Monroe counties."

Mahalak is seeking his fifth term as a state representative. Elected to the State House in 1964, the incumbent is basing his re-election campaign on his integrity, ability and experience.

Mahalak looks on integrity as "making laws, not extra dollars" and as having the "courage and good sense to say no to junkets at taxpayers' expense, when you know the district or state will not profit from your experience."

During his 16 years in the legislature, Mahalak has served on

WHAT DO I LEAVE AND HOW DO I LEAVE IT?

You probably know the importance of making a will, but you may wonder what should be included in it. You can make things a little easier on yourself and your loved ones if you know what to leave and how to leave it. Consider these things before having your attorney draw up your will:

1. List your possible beneficiaries with their address. What, if anything, do you wish to leave to each?
2. What monies do you owe? List your outstanding obligations.
3. List family possessions handed down from generation to generation. Such as jewelry or china.
4. List property not included in your will, such as insurance policies or savings bonds with a named beneficiary.
5. List family possessions handed down from generation to generation, such as jewelry or china.
6. Decide what should be done with your home. Do you wish it to go to your spouse completely, or do you wish her/him to have it only during her/his lifetime and then pass it to your children?
7. Special problems are posed if you own a business. Do you want to liquidate or have your business carried on by your spouse or some one else?
8. Other considerations should include gifts, charities and trusts.

We appreciate your questions and hope you will feel free to seek our advice at any time.

DetRo sues city over rezoning site

tabled action pending more information from DetRo.

He said DetRo does have an option on "close to 40 acres" east of Romulus City Hall and additional property in that area.

However, Pearceall said, he did not believe that DetRo has options on additional land at this time near city hall.

He disclaimed knowledge of reports that residents of the area near city hall had been given notice by DetRo to move prior to construction of the sludge recovery plant there.

However, Dennis Francis, real estate director for DetRo, acknowledged that the company had additional acreage under option in the city hall area, he said he could not divulge how many acres were involved or other details at this time.

In other developments, the Romulus school district, upon recommendation last week by Supt. William Bedell, has hired a second law firm — Keller, Thoma, Schwarze and Schwarze — to handle a variety of matters, including how DetRo's proposed plant would affect the school system.

Dr. Bedell said the law firm would be checking on a number of questions, such as: possibility of legal action by the school district should DetRo locate its plant near North Jr. High School and Wick Elementary School; determination of what court will have jurisdiction should a lawsuit arise; who will make the final decision on the plant's location; have other communities out of the 76 which feed sludge into Detroit been checked out as sites for the plant; what guarantees will the school district have in regard to odors and drainage from nearby sludge recovery plant; and what financial benefits would the community receive from such a plant.

Still another angle cropped up recently. In response to an inquiry from the city treasurer, DetRo's law firm of Nellis, Jahr & Steffen of Westland indicated that Romulus would have to initiate action to receive payment fees from the company under "police powers" authorized in state statutes and the city charter.

Although the law firm's letter cited several legal cases as precedent for such action by Romulus, nowhere did it state that DetRo would offer payments to the city voluntarily of its own volition.

Specifically, the last paragraph of the letter to Mrs. McAnally read: "Based upon the above citations, it is my conclusion that Romulus has the authority under its police powers, its power to regulate trades and occupations and its power to collect excises levied for regulatory purposes and not as revenue levies, to impose a privilege fee on DetRo computed on tonnage delivered to the facility."

The letter, signed by John J. Nellis, based its opinions on the assumption that the sludge recovery plant is approved by Romulus.

When it first proposed to build a sludge recovery plant in Romulus, DetRo was talking about paying the city about $150,000 to $200,000 annually in revenue.

Later, at meetings before the Planning Commission, the figure reportedly had jumped to about $1 million a year.

Schools to reopen

Tempers flare in Huron strike

A strike Thursday by some 100 members of Teamsters Local 214, representing hourly paid employees closed down the Huron school district.

Supt. Curtis D. Bartz ordered the district's schools shut down after the union set up picket lines about 6:30 a.m. Thursday. He said Tuesday that school would reopen Wednesday (today), but bus and lunch service would not be available.

A special hearing asked by the school district was held Tuesday morning in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Bud Grable, business agent for Local 214, said the presiding judge: 1) ordered daily negotiations be held with the aid of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission; 2) ruled against ordering strikers back to work; 3) scheduled a meeting with MERC in Detroit at 10 a.m. Wednesday (today); restricted picketing to two pickets per entrance.

Grable charged that on the first day of picketing, five strikers were hit by vehicles, three of which had to be hospitalized.

He said administrators were driving vehicles that struck two of the hospitalized strikers.

"One of our pickets had his foot run over by the superintendent," Grable declared.

Grable said that the employees on strike — bus drivers, secretaries, cooks, mechanics, custodians, teacher aides, and maintenance personnel — are seeking a 12-percent salary hike.

He said the school board had not presented its counter offer of 3½ percent until four and a half months after expiration of the old contract on June 30, 1980.

"Their latest offer is now 5 percent," said Grable, "but other school districts who have settled this year have been getting from 9 to 11 percent for hourly employees."

Grable said money was one of the main problems, the others being the school board's attempt to reduce benefits and change language on vacations, holidays, supplying of tools, and other items.

Nice going

A recently arrived couple to Romulus from Atlanta, Ga., Jim and Barbara Cremeens, are the recipients of a tension-filled, but happy experience. Mrs. Cremeens last month successfully delivered her first child, a healthy baby girl, at home alone. Named Brandy Lee, the baby weighed in at 6 pounds and 15½ ounces and was born on the day before her mother's birthday. The mother

Energy conservation

School officials attend workshop

Local school officials, the Detroit assistant superintendent of schools, and a Michigan State University professor took part in an all-afternoon energy education workshop recently at Barth Elementary School in Romulus.

Sponsored by a grant from the Michigan Dept. of Energy, the workshop was held to achieve four primary goals, said Ellis Stewart, Barth principal.

Goals are: 1) To update teachers on energy and energy conservation; 2) to introduce teachers to newly-developed energy education curriculum materials; 3) to acquaint teachers with a multi-disciplinary approach to teaching courses on energy and energy conservation; and 4) to provide teachers with information about additional available energy education curriculum materials for courses in K-8.

Dr. Martin Hetherington, professor of science and mathematics, Michigan State University teaching center, and Dr. Herbert Tabor, Detroit assistant superintendent, participated in the workshop.

Dr. Hetherington obtained the grant that pays for the conducting of such workshops throughout the state of Michigan, said Stewart.

Romulus Supt. William Bedell, members of the Romulus school district central staff and school administrators attended the energy workshop which began at 11:30 a.m. with a catered luncheon and continued on until 3:45 p.m.

Also on hand was Jay Young, public information officer for the city of Romulus.

Romulus School Supt. believes:

Tax proposal will harm schools

By DR. WILLIAM BEDELL
Romulus Supt. of Schools

(Editor's note: Romulus Supt. of Schools Dr. William Bedell believes three tax proposals on the Nov. 4 ballot would harm the field of public education and jeopardize the industrial and commercial tax base of communities like Romulus. His analysis of all three proposals follows.)

The general election in November offers Michigan voters three tax proposals. These proposals are designed to reform property taxes in one form or another and are referred to as Tisch II, Smith-Bullard, and the Executive-Legislative Proposal.

It is the overwhelming opinion of most state, university and public school officials that all three tax proposals would generally destroy state and local services as we know them today. The question residents in Southeast Michigan must deal with is whether they want to abandon a basic tax system that is tied to property values and replace it with a system that most assuredly would have to include substantial reliance on income tax or sales tax. The Southeast section of Michigan is obviously the highest income section of the state; therefore, one would conclude that this part of the state would be forced to pay a higher percentage of the tab. A community such as Romulus that is beginning to develop a substantial industrial and commercial tax base would lose the benefit of the monies that this tax base offers its local school district. This move to go to state-wide tax reform comes at a time when declining enrollment makes the local property tax bases even more substantial for each pupil. It is obvious that somewhere in the future, three to six years from now for example, Romulus will be a relatively wealthy SEV per pupil school district and be able to provide an adequate K-12 educational program solely from local sources.

If several of these proposals go through, residents in Romulus would be forced to deal with the traffic, noise and odors often related to industrial and business development without the benefits of the tax base. The ballot proposals are extremely complicated, but they can be summarized generally as follows:

TISCH II

Reduces property tax assessment from 50 percent of true cash value to 25 percent of what the property was valued at in 1978. In addition, it restricts any growth in real or personal property to 2 percent annually on a residential and agricultural property beginning in December, 1981. Business and industrial and other classifications of property would be restricted to an annual rate of increase not to exceed the cost of living increase in the previous year. Local school districts would lose approximately one-half of their tax support, but Tisch requires the state to compensate for this loss by matching local taxes dollar for dollar. The problem with this approach, as pointed out by state officials, is that the state would not have adequate funds or taxing ability to provide these matching dollars; thus both the state and local school districts would suffer massive reductions in programs. The state budget director has indicated that, in the first year if Tisch were to go through, all school aid would be discontinued, all state parks would be closed, and many other reductions will occur.

Smith-Bullard Proposal

The Smith-Bullard Proposal limits the levy of local districts for operating purposes to from 1 to 7 mills. The funds needed to replace the lost revenue would come from a state-wide tax of up to 30.5 mills on business and industrial property. The proposal calls for the establishment of a "program of general taxation" that would most certainly mean an increase in state income tax. This means that residents of Southeastern Michigan would have a bigger "bite" coming out of their income and they would lose the benefits of their industrial tax base. Actually, the Smith-Bullard Proposal is as much as an attempt to equalize the expenditures for education throughout the state as it is to reform taxes.

It is being supported heavily by state-wide teacher associations who are interested in getting Southeast Michigan's tax base spread further to the out-state areas.

The Executive-Legislative Proposal This is probably the least harmful of the three proposals to local school districts. It grants a $7,100 State Equalized Value Homestead Exemption to each property owner in the state and phases out the sales and use tax on residential and energy use. To replace the lost revenue, the proposal would increase sales and use tax by 1½ percent. Essentially this proposal would shift about $800,000,000 in the first year away from property tax collected locally to sales and use tax collected by the state. The major problems with this proposal is that its funding base over the long haul would not be adequate to meet local and state needs and it is another one in a long series of patchwork attempts to solve taxing problems in this state.

In summary, the three tax reform proposals are well intended attempts to correct some problems in the existing property tax system. It is my opinion and that of most state and local officials, that they miss the mark in making corrections and indeed go so far as to either destroy needed services or create increases in other unwanted tax areas. Romulus and other residents of Southeast Michigan should be very careful to safeguard against any attempt to reduce or transfer the benefits of their business or industrial tax base.

Fight blaze in VB

Condor seeks cable TV franchise

They built Lemontree's and want to expand

Condor Cable of Livonia, the company which recently built the cable television installation at Lemontree Apartments in Van Buren Township, is seeking a franchise for a system to service the entire township.

Condor representatives appeared last week (Tuesday) before the township board to explain why their firm could best serve Van Buren with its cable TV system.

Company officials said Condor would build a system that would offer 54-channel capability and a 55-channel utility two-way network for township government and schools.

Another cable TV company, United of Englewood, Colo., did not make a scheduled appearance.

Instead, the firm indicated it was only interested in obtaining a cable TV franchise for Van Buren and four other communities in a package project.

The five communities are members of the Western Five Community Conference, a consortium which works for the financial best interests of its member communities.

Recently, Western Five chose Omnicom of Plymouth as the firm to build a system for the five-community area. But, some members did not get backing from their townships boards and councils and the selection of a cable TV firm is hanging in limbo.

Omnicom is scheduled to make its presentation to the Van Buren Township Board on Oct. 28. Previously, Comcast of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa. had appeared before the township board to make its pitch for a township franchise.

In addition to Van Buren, the township of Sumpter and Huron and the cities of Belleville and Romulus are included in the Western Five cable TV package concept.

Before making any choice, the Van Buren Board will adopt a cable TV ordinance and name a cable TV communications commission to control its cable TV operations once the system is built.

Condor told the township board that its installation at Lemontree is the first operating cable TV system in Wayne County and already has 476 subscribers out of the total 1,196 units at the complex.

The Livonia firm said it could have cable TV operational in Van Buren within 10 months and that 93 percent of the township would be covered by the third ear of operation.

Hink seeks charter commissioner seat

Walter T. Hink, a practicing attorney with offices in Canton Township, is seeking the Wayne County Charter Commissioner's seat in the 27th District on the Democratic ticket in the Nov. 4 General Election.

The Charter Commissioner race is separate from that of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners race. The 27th District includes the Cities of Wayne, Westland, Belleville and Plymouth and the Townships of Canton, Van Buren, Sumpter, Plymouth and Northville.

Walter Hink, a 16 year resident of Van Buren Township, is no newcomer to the political scene. In 1976 and 1978, as a candidate for County Commissioner, he predicted Wayne County's financial problems and the straits the County would be in with respect to deficit financing in County government and for the past four years has advocated the need for the reorganization of Wayne County government.

Hink indicated that his purpose for seeking the Charter Commissioner's seat is that he feels he has the necessary insight to Wayne County's financial problems to be an effective representative on the Charter Commission which will propose a new Charter for Wayne County.

Hink advocates an elected County Executive with the necessary authority to effectively oversee the various departments and agencies of the Wayne County government.

Hink also advocates a Department of County Financial Operations which can effectively supervise, control and coordinate the Wayne County budget which exceeds $300 million.

Hink is a graduate of Wayne State University with a degree in Business Finance and received his Law degree from the University of Detroit. He is a member of the Michigan State Bar Association and is admitted to practice law before the Michigan Supreme Court, the U.S. District Court, and the U.S. Supreme Court.

Hink, married to a teacher in the Van Buren Public School District, has been endorsed by the 15th and 2nd Congressional District Democratic Party, local Democratic Clubs and Organizations, United Automobile Workers of America (UAW-CAP), Greater Detroit Building Trades Council, Teamsters - Joint Council 43 D.R.I.V.E., Michigan Education Association (M.E.A.) and the Polish Central Citizen's Committee.

Student Assistance Act extended

James R. McCartney, Trustee-Wayne County Community College, lauded Congressman William D. Ford, 15th District, for his tremendous impact on the extension of the Middle Income Student Assistance Act.

"The extension of the Act," says McCartney, "will continue to provide availability of Basic Grants for educational costs to students of working middle class families." McCartney said.

"In a typical family of four with an annualized income of $26,000, a student will now be eligible for a grant where previously the income cut off was about $15,000." McCartney views this type of assistance opportunity as a wise and necessary investment in the people of this land.

The act, recently passed by Congress and signed by President Carter, is a continuation of a law originally drafted by Congressman Ford and will provide Michigan students with over $50 Million in additional student aid funds.

McCartney feels that Wayne County residents will have "the best opportunity ever" to increase their educational capacity when students take advantage of this financial assistance program and an opportunity to receive one of over 250 scholarships being offered by Wayne County Community College this school year.

Housewife sells 'glass plate' for $40; worth $1,800

NILES, Ill.—The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.

In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of the Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wisc., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate ... which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time."

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,800. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation checklist used by the exchange.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code before Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. A39843, 9301 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, IL 60648. A postcard will do.

Belleville-Van Buren Jaycees plan 'haunted house'

The Belleville-Van Buren Jaycees are opening a Haunted House in the old Township Hall on Main Street from October 17th through October 30th.

This is a different type of haunting. The Jaycees will scare you from a dungeon and kids who came last year have the added fun of going into the depths of the earth to meet wolfmen, monsters, and slimy creatures.

And all for a good cause — the monies will finance Jaycee projects.

The Dungeon will be open on Mondays thru Fridays from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Charge will be 75 cents per person.

Co-Chairmen are Dave Grace and Bob Udovich who have planned a frightening tour of the underworld. They have been assisted by Roger Suter, Chapter Ways and Means Vice President and Ron McKelvie, Tom Stuart, and Phil Rossman.

Proceeds from the Dungeon will stay in the area, and benefit residents.

Group rates are available by advance reservation to Catalina Hall at 697-2990. For any other information call Roger Suter at 697-1361.

Jaycettes, the women's auxiliary, will be selling hot cider and donuts to the public to support the event. Young persons between the ages of 18 and 35, are welcome to join the organization.

In the meantime, the Order of Moose, Belleville 934, annual Halloween party for the children of the community will be held on Friday Oct. 31st, at the Moose lodge parking lot, 6 p.m.

Hot dogs and cider will be served. There will be prizes awarded for the best costumes.

The adult Halloween party will be held on Sat., Oct. 25th after the enrollment of new members and dinner. There will be prizes for costumes, "Music by The Midnight Mist."

Tom Meixer was elected to two year trustee office, filling the vacancy left when Ross Gagneau resigned.

Prelate Dick Wilsey and Jr. Governor Ted Dyer represented the lodge at the State Convent held recently in Wyandotte.

Belleville Lodge has bowling teams on Tuesday at Lodge Lans, Friday at Romulus and a mixed league in Romulus every other Sunday. The Belleville team is in first place on the Sunday morning Moose league in Allen Park.

Belleville has several teams in the traveling pool league held on Thursday nights and our mixed pool league being held on Sundays is very popular.

The next dance after the Halloween party will be held on Sat. Nov. 8th., honoring Lois Anguilm on her "Green Cap Night". Meeting at 7 P.M. Dancing to The Country Green."

Candidates: Please keep it clean

Ladies and gentlemen, let's keep it clean, please.

Sure you want to get elected—and we'd like to lend our support to your campaign, but digging up all that dirt about your opposition isn't going to help sway our minds.

Talk about the issues. About how your program will lower taxes. What you're going to do to lift us from the economic doldrums we're in. Don't take the cue from the President of these United States and sling mud whenever and wherever you can—you become lesser a person.

You will win with words and deeds and lose with words of misdeeds.

We need no explanation why you're running—obviously you think you're the best person for the job, but demonstrate to us that you are above all others with your integrity, your desire to be public servants, to listen and evaluate and care for what you feel this nation should do to solve its problems.

We don't care if you're a "liberal" or a "conservative" or a "write-in" candidate, but we do care if you know that it's the people, and only the people, whom you serve.

So, as we approach the stretch for the 1980 political campaign, tell us how you'll fight unemployment and inflation, what you will do to help the elderly and make medical care available to all of us. Let us evaluate and decide.

Please don't tell us about your opponent's shortcomings—we already know them—and yours. We suspect the letters, unsigned, of course, about your opponent's shortcomings were forwarded to us for just one reason: to give us the dirt. That information, as always, if filed in the nearest wastepaper basket.

So, keep it clean, Mr. or Ms. Candidate. You have a better chance of getting our vote.

Beware: Trick or treaters

With Halloween fast approaching, an awesome responsibility confronts adults not only in our circulation area, but across the nation.

What responsibility?

That of safeguarding the safety and lives of young children who are out after dark participating in the long-awaited "trick or treat" associated with the autumn holiday.

In recent years, a few "sick" adults have taken it upon themselves to insert glass, razor blades, and other sharp objects into candy, apples and other treats given to trick or treaters.

Parents should take advantage of services now being offered by most local police departments—having all of the candy, fruit and other edible foods screened by metal detectors at designated sites publicized in advance of the Halloween holiday.

Also, parents should cooperate with advice from police officers and dress their children in light-colored clothing so they can be easily seen by motorists as they cross the street.

Parents should provide their kids with a flashlight and make certain that they do not go out alone.

Halloween could be made a lot safer for our children and a lot less worrisome for parents if a few useful precautions are taken.

Guest column

By DONNA L. HALL,
Community Developer and Grant
Coordinator-Van Buren Township

I am very concerned with the statements Mr. George Roberts has made over the last several weeks. As a former candidate for public office and a former elected official, I am aware of the tactics and political motives used by political candidates; however, what impact will his so-called half facts have on Van Buren Township?

Mr. Roberts is making statements about issues that he virtually has little knowledge of. When the election is over and the "politics" that goes along with elections die down, the fate of Van Buren Township will be dropped once again into the lap of the Supervisor.

I hope the voice of experience and past performance will prevail.

Reflecting upon a few of Mr. Roberts' comments, I feel it is necessary that I speak out at this time.

First of all, I am not a full-time Grants Coordinator. I am a full-time Community Developer and Grants Coordinator and my responsibilities entail much more than just obtaining state and federal grants.

Although much of this is understandable considering that state and federal revenues make up the largest portion of our budget.

For Roberts to say that we received the federal grant for the French Landing Dam simply because we happen to have a dam available is ridiculous. I know for a fact that Supervisor Cullin spent many hours, day and night, with many different agencies trying to get this project going.

One talks about Federal grants as though it were a simplified procedure. The French Landing Dam Project alone involves ten interacting governmental and private agencies which all play an important part and Van Buren Township is the nucleus for which this joint venture revolves.

It didn't just happen that Van Buren Township was ready to renovate the dam when funds became available. It took a lot of skillful planning along with being well informed of the activities taking place on the national level.

The statement regarding the fire station that Van Buren Township built three years ago with federal funds is worthy of special mention. Planning ahead is an important function in local government.

It is true that federal grants come from your taxes and my taxes and the taxes from Detroit residents and Livonia residents, etc. It is also true that most grants are usually awarded on a competitive basis. Supervisor Cullin was advised by our representatives in Washington that federal monies for public building such as township halls and fire stations would probably not become available again for many years and that we should submit our application.

Romulus charter changes

Since I've read about the two propositions to be placed on the November 4, ballot, I wondered if the Romulus citizens have been made aware of what they will be voting for?

1. Proposed charter amendment to increase the terms of all elected officials from 2 to 4 years at the election of officers in November 1981.

My idea of 4 year terms seem to be a necessity if we are to attract qualified people to run for full time offices of mayor, clerk, and treasurer.

As to councilman terms, which are part-time positions, it isn't necessary for 4 year terms, especially when the county and state hold elections every two years which are necessary.

If indeed, the voters want 4 year council terms, it would have been my desire that it be for 4 year staggered terms, whereby at the first such election the 3 highest vote receivers be awarded the 4-year terms and the following 4 to 2-year terms.

With those 2-year terms becoming 4-year terms, elective after the initial 2 year period has passed.

Henceforth council candidates would run every 2-years for the staggered 4-year terms.

This hopefully would leave the council with 3 or 4 experienced councilman, should all new ones be elected at one staggered election.

Albeit there is little likelihood that all incumbents would lose in any one election. But new council compositions can make for positive progress in Romulus.

2. Approval of the Civil Service Section as authorized by the charter.

It seems about time that our city starts becoming of age and offers something to its experienced employees after ten years. For with continued turnover, it leaves the city wanting for providing adequate services to its citizens.

Civil Service merits your deepest consideration at this time.

Charles Dick Jr.

Reye syndrome

By MAURICE B. REIZEN, M.D.
Department of Public Health

Sometimes you need a seventh sense about your children. The sixth sense is all right for the bumps and bruises of childhood, but when it comes to a serious disease, like Reye Syndrome, you need a seventh sense.

Reye Syndrome is the mysterious disease that sometimes follows influenza or chicken pox during a child's recovery stage. It attacks mostly children from infancy to 18 years of age, and it's sometimes fatal. It's not contagious, but it's a disease to be feared.

So threatening is Reye syndrome that last year schools in some communities were closed, parents lived with anxiety, and several children died.

The only thing we can say to parents is watch for symptoms from one to ten days after your children recover from flu or chicken pox. Your alert seventh sense will make you aware of the symptoms.

The symptoms are nervous disorders such as personality change, irritability, disorientation and confusion, followed by vomiting, delirium, and convulsions. Often coma follows, and sometimes death. When the first symptoms appear, don't wait until morning to call your doctor. Call immediately! If your doctor is not available, take your child to the nearest hospital emergency room. Speed is essential to recovery. The disease affects the liver and causes brain swelling, and in most cases can be cured, if treated in time.

We're trying to find out what causes Reye Syndrome. A Great Lakes Surveillance group was formed in 1977 to learn what causes it and how it's spread. So far our evidence doesn't tell us what we need to know. Similar studies are being done in other parts of the country, so the answers may be forthcoming.

In the meantime, be aware. If your children come down with flu or chicken pox, watch them closely—very closely—for the next ten days. If you detect the symptoms described above in their recovery period, get immediate medical help. Your watchful seventh sense could save their lives.

Ugly ducklings

By TOM MOORADIAN
Acting Managing Editor

There is a natural repulsion for the ugly. I remember as a kid when my face was scared by acne, people would turn their face and look the other way.

I would ask, "Why?" and, of course, there were no real answers. It was largely due to unconsiderate, illiterate people who were conditioned by society to breed contempt for us "ugly ducklings."

Strange I should let that Danish author's thoughts about the swan capture and take over my mind as I listen as each citizen addresses Council, denouncing them "for allowing foster homes to come into our neighborhoods."

"They will decrease the property value of our homes," said one irate citizen.

"Our children—who will protect them? What will you tell me if one of my kids is molested or raped by these people?" asked another woman.

The fears that a home for the schizophrenic would sound the death knell for their community brought residents before Inkster City Council Monday night to argue against approval.

The tempest that followed unleashed some legitimate and not so legitimate concerns. Most spoke as if "dooms day" would arrive the day the foster home opened. They saw these future neighbors as rapists, drug peddlers, child molesters—you name it. And felt that Council and council members were betraying their trust... again.

Like Captain Ahab, they refused to see that their problem was not with the foster home or homes, but with a society that breeds contempt for the mentally defective or the handicapped. Our eyes rivet on anything that we feel "is not normal, unacceptable."

Most communities, moreover, will fight "to the last man" against the invasion of such homes into their cities. And, that is one reason why such action is taken out of the hands of the local authorities—the state Legislature passed a law that under its guidelines a license for a foster home can't be rejected by a city council.

The state law supercedes any ordinance that is or was passed by a municipality.

Yet, if this is so, how do many municipalities and communities manage to keep out such homes? Why, according to figures offered by Inkster City Council, does the city house some 30 such homes?

How can others show defiance to the law, while Inkster submits, although grudgingly to the law.

It also seems that holding such public meetings is adding gross insult to the citizens' intelligence.

Here's what Wylie Williams, city manager, said in a way of a response to a resident who asked: "Why, then, if we can't do anything to stop these homes from coming in, are we here?" Williams answered:

"We must hold public hearings to let you, the citizens, know what is happening and to be heard, but you have no power to decide. We have sent a letter (to the state) asking for a moratorium to stop this kind of establishment coming into our city. We have more than our share."

And asked by an inquisitive reporter if "these unwanted people have ever caused any problems... how many police runs have been made to these special homes... the reply was "We haven't had any problems that I know of."

I wish the rest of our society would be so law-biding.

Clearing up half truths

other municipality when we know the future need is here.

Senior housing is another issue that Mr. Roberts dwells upon. I wish it were as simple to erect a senior Housing development as Roberts would like the residents to believe it is. Senior housing is an issue that Supervisor Cullin, as well as past Supervisor Gollwitzer, have been involved in for a long time. She has diligently worked with one of the best developers in the country as well as others.

The rules and regulations which M.S.H.D.A. and H.U.D. operated have made it very difficult for a site in Van Buren Township to qualify. One site was denied because of a lack of competitive shopping.

However, when one site is denied, we continue to pursue others and hopefully the housing agencies will soon realize the need our community has for senior housing.

As it is with many federal and state subsidies, it takes time to get the commitments necessary for development.

In closing I only wish to say to the voters in Van Buren township, please, be sure to know all the facts about the candidates. Don't be misled by half-truths given by candidates who will use every political trick in the book to get elected.

It's the aftermath that really counts, so take a good look at past performance and involvement. Supervisor Cullin is a life long resident of Van Buren and having been personally acquainted with most of the residents, she can associate with their needs and sentiments because they are basically the same as hers.

This is a four year term and I personally feel that Supervisor Cullin's past performance and excellent record establishes her as the only candidate qualified to guide our Township onward and upward towards continued good services and progressive prosperities.

Co-workers defend Cullin

EDITOR—Last week's guest editorial written by Supervisor Cullin's opponent was very disturbing to us personally. The insinuations made by him were completely false. Because we work there, we know exactly what goes on daily in the supervisors office.

All calls that are received from the switchboard to the Supervisors office are logged and responded to as soon as possible. Supervisor Cullin has always answered calls from the residents. She is always ready and willing to hear complaints and work together towards a viable solution. It is true, that in a community of 18,000 residents with 1 supervisor, to individually contact and work with those of the 18,000 that need assistance, it may be the next day or two when the return call is made but Cullin starts everyday by returning calls not gotten to on the day received. In fact her door is always open for anyone who comes in, with or without an appointment and daily many residents do.

One of Supervisor Cullin's finest assets is that she sincerely feels that each and every resident is her employer. She never tries to put herself above the people she represents. Her policies have always been to work with the citizens on a one to one basis. Working as close to the Supervisor as we do has enlightened our views on the complexities of a growing community.

Supervisor Cullin's efforts are tireless. You can see by her appointment calendar that most of her days go from 8 AM to 11 PM. There are occasions when she is out of the office at one meeting or another; however, all the meetings which she attends involve the Township either directly or indirectly. There is more to being the Supervisor than meets the eyes of the public. Every day (not just Board Meeting nights) things are happening all around us that have or could have a potential impact on Van Buren Township. Supervisor Cullin realizes that she cannot just administer from within the boundaries of Van Buren Township, but must also be involved in County, State and Federal activities in order to protect our Township.

We would like to assure the residents of this fine community that Supervisor Cullin more than fulfills her obligations to this community and the office that she holds. We welcome a visit by any resident at any time and depend on them to help be the eyes and ears of Township government.

Roberts didn't do homework

EDITOR—I wish to respond to the Guest Editorial, written by George Roberts.

My first comment is, Roberts has NOT done his homework. If he had any knowledge of Van Buren Township Ordinances, he would have sounded more intelligent. There is a black book he can purchase for a fee, or I am sure Pat Cullin will allow him to borrow it. I will try to clear up a couple of problems he mentioned.

1. Abandoned Houses on Elwell Road: Ordinance reads, all houses which are abandoned must be boarded up, as not to gain entry. To my knowledge these houses are boarded up. Because a house stands abandoned & boarded up does not make it hazardous, according to Van Buren Township Zoning Ordinance.

2. Tires On Belleville Road. This case has been through all procedures possible by Van Buren Township Ordinance Department.

I am sure Mr. Roberts can check with the 34th District Court & Van Buren Township records and find out Pat Cullin has seen to it, to the fullest that all has been done to this date to clear up said tires.

Cullin has a open door policy and will discuss any problem with a solution that Mr. Roberts or any taxpayer may have. I will close with one statement in defense of our supervisor who I believe goes thru a problem not around it.

On DetRo's request

EDITOR—All we hear is the negative points about DetRo Recovery coming to Romulus. We hear that the people are 100 percent against it. How can that be so?

I understand that the population of Romulus is well over 20,000. Have there been that many people talked to? I really doubt it. I really don't think that the City Council Room at City Hall will hold over 300 people at any one time.

And 300 does not equal a 100 percent of the population. Plus some of those people won't have appeared if they hadn't received letters to appear.

It is always the same people who don't want new things in Romulus. How can this be seen as the broad over all feeling of the people?

If you look into this, you will see that it is most always the same people at these meetings. And usually they don't have enough manners to listen to someone else's point of view. They are too busy booing and groaning to hear what is said.

We hear that DetRo Recovery will smell! Well, how about Detroit Metro Airport? It sure doesn't smell very sweet. The same goes for the factories that are along Goddard Road. Also the Shook Drain which runs on my property line.

When it rains, you would throw up if you stood in my yard. There are days at a time that we can't even open our windows. What are the good people of Romulus going to do about this? Nothing, as has been done for the last six years.

Some say that this doesn't concern them. Well, neither will Det Ro concern them, if they don't live along Wayne Road.

I understand that some of the Romulus Business People don't want DetRo to move in. That is really funny. As some of them don't even live in Romulus. Well, we do live here and also have a business here.

What about the jobs that DetRo will bring? Don't we need them? What about the tax money that DetRo Recovery and its employees will pay? Don't our schools need money?

How about money to pay for our Police Protection?

People say that they can't afford more taxes, so let this plant help pay some of them. There are a few plants around here that don't do that.

People say that General Motors will expand and build more. How can that be? If the cars aren't selling, how will G.M. take on new employees?

If G.M. does expand what about the employees with high seniority, that have first choice on those jobs?

It seems odd to me that many of the people that I have talked to seem either pleased about DetRo or could care less what happens.

I have heard "What about Romulus' Image"? So who asked that question and the most received answer I have gotten is "What Image?" Romulus hasn't changed in 40 years, because the same people always block the changes.

I think that it is time for the people of Romulus to realize something: Industry has been allowed here before and it must be continued to be allowed to save this city.

Urges Inkster recall

EDITOR—Having Mayor William Daniels and his council partners refer to the recall as being politically motivated and the work of people who make no contribution to good government is another instance of how far away they have strayed from the idea of good government.

The best interests of the citizens of Inkster is not very well served by this group.

The people I know who signed those petitions were not politically motivated and they are interested in good government.

What moved them to action was the fact that the city taxes increased 33 percent with one stroke of the pen.

Everyone knows it takes money for city services and that inflation hits city government also, but that increase borders on fiscal recklessness and arrogance.

It is to be hoped they shall soon be recalled and replaced by people with more good sense, who are more concerned with good government and who have not lost touch with reality.

Inkster is not a bad place to be and with a few minor adjustments in the governing personnel can be even better.

Teachers are important

EDITOR—Concerning the Van Buren teachers.

Why is it that our board of education is trying hard to make it appear that our teachers are not important?

The board has the money to make sure there are nice intercoms in our schools. They are guaranteeing us that the kids will get to school, with new busses and a fine starting system, but they are saying to us I'm sorry we don't have the money for the teachers. They are last on our list!

If all of us would stop and think about our years in school, most of us would remember at least one, probably as many as five or six teachers, that made a difference in our lives.

I graduated from Belleville.

If it had not been for several teachers and the good effect they had on my life, I know I would have went the wrong way.

So to the fine teachers here in Van Buren, I know you care about our children. I just don't know how to help you. Our board is a sad example of our community. They say in public statements that it is money only, I know better. They fail to bring up class size, room temp. and preparation time.

They say you work nine months out of a year and only six hours a day. They don't say about the times you take an abused or mixed up kid aside and say to that child "I care" and mean it.

A teacher does make a difference to all children. A teacher can and does have a big effect on our children. Ninety percent of the time it is a good effect. Our board is putting busses before our children.

They feel it is more important to have new schools, new busses, and well paid administrators, but when it comes to our children, make them look good, but don't let their minds grow!

You the board are saying, my three children should not have teachers that care. But the busses will start!

Our board is worried about status with material things. Not our children!

But I care and remember our fine dedicated teachers, that teach here at Van Buren schools.

Please all of you teachers, continue to care and remember that there are parents who want to help. Don't quit! You are important!

'D' majority

EDITOR— There is one very compelling reason why we should vote against Proposal D (Tisch) in the November election:

It is undemocratic and against the basic foundation of our American life.

Since 1776 Americans have believed in the principle that the majority rules. A majority has always been 50 percent plus one.

Now Mr. Tisch proposes that all future increases in State money be approved by 60 percent, except for his. He did not propose that 60 percent of the voters approve his plan. A simple majority is good enough for him, until he gets his way. Then change the rules for everyone else.

I don't want to play his game. Even if it sounds so good, his way of winning is just plain unAmerican.

Americans and Michiganders just can't afford to give up ideals which have lasted centuries. Come back later Mr. Tisch, with a fair proposal. Vote NO on D.

Pictorial view

Just a mirage

EDITOR — On Wednesday, Oct. 8, in a by-lined story written by your reporter, Bob Ameen, headlined: "Landfill Owner Sets Record Straight," he quoted Mike Farrantino, the owner of Wayne Disposal as saying:

"The lagoons are gone."

If that is so, then the photos I took are a 'mirage' — but believe me they're not. This picture was taken on Sunday, Oct. 19, and it proves that someone is misinformed — and believe me it isn't me.

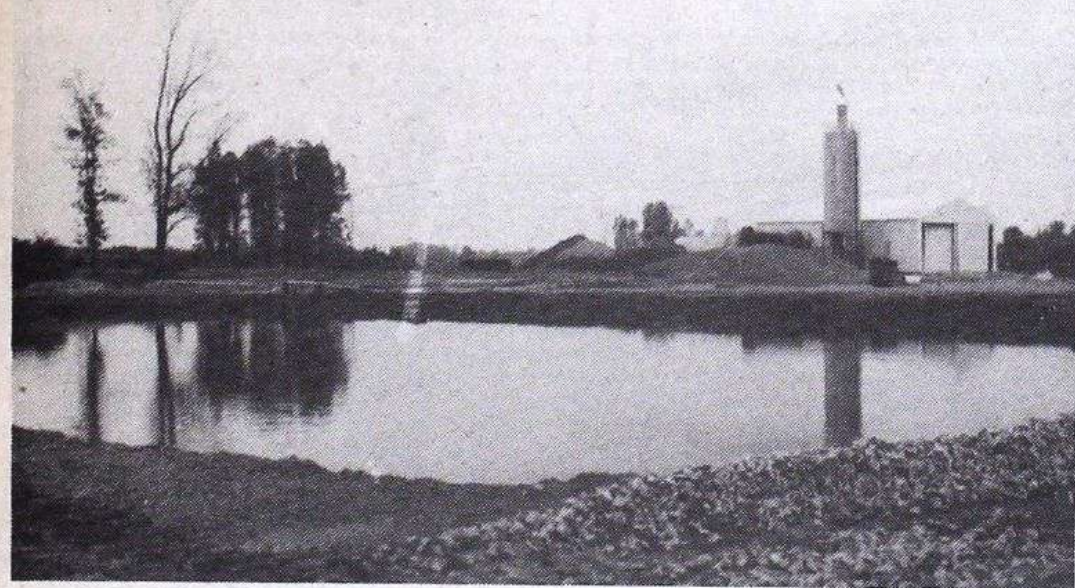

The lagoons are there, filled with chemicals, and nobody knows exactly what these chemicals are. The fact that the lagoons are there is a threat to Van Buren and the residents. And I believe the township board and supervisor have an obligation and responsibility to clear the air.

This isn't a political hot potato. We just don't want another "Love Canal" here in our township.

Please withhold my name because they will say I'm politically motivated for doing this. I just want to prove I have the township's concern as my major reason for offering the public this information.

Beyer Hospital to host Alcoholism Therapy series

If alcoholism has ever touched your life or the life of someone you care about, if you are interested in learning more about the disease for any reason, the Beyer Memorial Hospital Alcoholism Therapy Department has designed a 4-week series of programs for you.

The public is invited free of charge to any or all of the four sessions to be held at the hospital, at 7:30 p.m., on Oct. 28, Nov. 4, 11, and 18.

The programs will be held in the second-floor cafeteria at Beyer, 135 S. Prospect, Ypsilanti.

On each evening, a different topic is scheduled. The presentations will combine lecture, discussion and films to explore alcohol abuse.

People who believe they might have a drinking problem, friends or family of a person with the disease of alcoholism, or anyone interested in getting information about the disease, are welcome, said Arthur M. Schaffran, chief substance abuse therapist at Beyer.

For more information, call the alcoholism therapy department at 484-2439.

The first program on Oct. 28 will consist of a lecture and discussion on the nature of alcoholism, its symptoms and phases. The sessions will run about 1½ to 2 hours, Schaffran said.

Each of the next three sessions will feature a film.

On Nov. 4, the film, "I'll Quit Tomorrow," shows the progression of a "normal" drinker to an alcoholic. After each film will be a period for discussion and answering questions.

The next session Nov. 11 will be of special interest to persons dealing with a loved one with a drinking problem, Schaffran said. The film, "The Process of Intervention," shows how people react to alcoholism, either by making it easier for the loved one to drink, or, intervening in a way that will encourage the problem drinker to seek help.

The program for Nov. 18 features the film, "The Summer We Moved to Elm Street," which tells the story of how alcoholism affected one family. The story is told through the eyes of a 9-year-old girl.

There is no need to sign up ahead of time for any of the programs, Schaffran added. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

The series also coincides with Alcoholism Awareness Week, which is the first week of November.

Woman of the Year

Georgia Badgett given BPW accolade

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's "Woman of the Year," Georgia Badgett, calls the historic state of Virginia her birthplace and maintains that she never knew Appalachians were poor until she moved north to Michigan and read about their economically deprived state in newspapers and magazines.

She graduated from Appalachia High School in 1943 and attended Mars Hill College in North Carolina for two years before transferring to Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn. where she received her A.B. degree in 1947.

She taught seventh grade history in Wise High School, Wise, Va. from 1947-49 and seventh grade in Damascus School, Abingdon, from 1949-50.

Detroit was her home when first coming to Michigan but later she moved to Romulus, the home of her brother Ernie and family. She was employed by the Romulus Community Schools in 1951 and taught seventh grade there from 1951-60. During this period she worked on her master's degree which she received from Wayne State University in 1959.

In 1960, she was promoted to teaching eighth grade for one year and then from 1961-65 she taught ninth grade English and Social studies in the junior high. From 1965-68 she was a senior high counselor.

In 1968 she became assistant principal of Romulus Senior High and served in this capacity until 1974 when she was named Senior High Dean of Students. In the spring of 1980 she was made Director of Alternative Education and is currently employed in this position.

Her personnel file states that she loves to sing and can play and teach the clarinet. Also, one of her favorite hobbies is cooking.

The 1980 Woman of the Year has broken in several roommates — one a cat lover, Marianne, and another a dog lover, Nancy. When her nieces, Carol, Linda and Chippi were in high school she traveled every summer showing them the sights in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, South Carolina and Washington, D.C.

She also allowed them to use her new cars to practice and learn to drive. Five years ago she inherited six children, three daughters-in-laws, a son-in-law and 12 grandchildren whether she wanted to or not. She's Santa Claus to the dirty dozen and hosts an annual Labor Day party in a foreign country.

Some of her favorite people have very strange names: Tiger, Boo, Hattie Bell, Muddy, The Morenci Marauders, Nig, Drippi Chippi, Lip Easy, Favorite Pig and of course, Trudi.

Georgia joined BPW in 1972 and was sponsored by Ruth Davis. She has been an active member serving on many committees: bulletin, business Women's Week, chairman and co-chairman of the scholarship committee several years, program committee, chairman of the young careerist committee in 1979-80 and Romulus advisory committee. She has served as corresponding secretary of the club for two years, 1974-76, recording secretary in 1976-78 and is currently vice-president of the club.

Jim Testorelli, Connie Cook wed at Martha-Mary Chapel

Martha Mary Chapel of Belleville was the setting September 20 for the double ring rite which joined Constance Ann Cook and James Paul Testorelli in holy matrimony.

The 11 a.m. ceremony was conducted by The Rev. Robert McCrae who was assisted by The Rev. John Klucka of St. Anthony's Church.

Some 180 relatives and friends were in attendance including the young couple's parents, Robert and Agnes Cook of 9569 Morton Taylor Rd., Belleville, and James and Mae Testorelli of 34488 McBride, Romulus.

Laura Richendollar, accompanied by Sue Stahl at the organ, sang "You Light Up My Life" and "We've Only Just Begun."

Escorted to the altar by her father, Connie appeared in a white lace gown designed by two close friends, Pam Meland and Enrica Hensley. The little fitted bodice featured an oval neckline with a small rolled back collar and full sleeves which terminated in a wide ruffle over the wrist.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion drifted from a pearl-trimmed cap and her bridal ensemble was completed with a bouquet of silk tea roses with peach and brown accents and sprigs of natural baby's breath.

The bride asked her cousin, Mrs. Gary Bartel of Ann Arbor, to serve as honor attendant. Her peach qiana gown was fashioned with a spaghetti strap bodice bloused at the waist and topped with a loose-fitting lace overblouse. She wore copper roses in her hair and carried a bouquet of copper roses, peach daisies and tea roses with brown accents.

Wearing identical outfits were Lynne Wisniewski and Mary Wisniewski of Canton, cousins of the bride, and Jamie Testorelli of Romulus, sister of the bridegroom. Carrie Cook was her sister's junior bridesmaid.

Ron Thomason of Belleville was his brother-in-law's best man. Groomsmen included Bill Johnson of Belleville, another brother-in-law; and David and Mark Cook of Belleville, brothers of the bride.

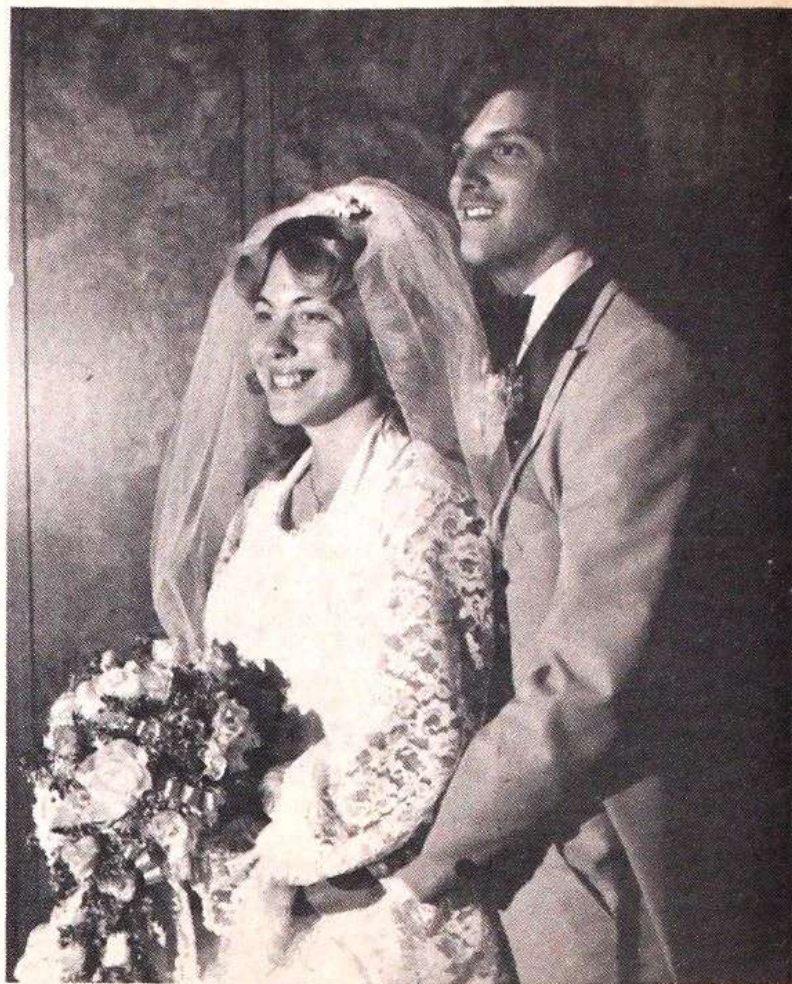

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cook donned a paprika-colored formal gown with a blouson bodice to which she attached her corsage of silk copper rosebuds and peach daisies. A dark blue formal dress with a shawl cover-up was the choice of Mrs. Testorelli whose corsage was comprised of silk yellow rosebuds and blue daisies.

A brunch for 200 guests followed at the PNA Hall where an evening reception for 280 took place at 6:30. Relatives attended from California, Florida, Flint and Lansing.

The newlyweds planned a 2-week honeymoon which included Colorado, the Black Hills of South Dakota and the Badlands before they took up residence at Holiday West on Willis Road.

In her final year at Eastern Michigan University where she is studying special education, the bride is currently employed as 4-H program assistant for Wayne County in Wayne. Her husband, a graduate of Romulus High School, is employed at GMAD at Ypsilanti.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Baldo's in Romulus.

September ceremony unites Kevin Buchanan, Kim Vincent

Double ring vows between Kimberly Susan Vincent and Kevin L. Buchanan were solemnized September 26 at Holy Trinity Chapel in Ypsilanti with some 250 guests in attendance.

The five thirty ceremony joined in marriage the daughter of James and Betty Vincent of 42480 E. Huron River Dr., Belleville, and the son of Catherine Buschleier of 2222 Shelly, Ypsilanti, and LeRoy Buchanan of 11 Ballard, Ypsilanti.

The Rev. Paul O'Conner presided at the autumn nuptials at which Bob Bradshire was organist and Kathy Rairik, soloist.

Given away by her mother and father, the bride was gowned in a toe-touching creation of white organza with Venice lace creating a V-neckline and also accenting the full bishop sleeves.

Her white lace hat was sprinkled with sequins and adorned with a fluff of veiling while a bouquet of white daisies, roses, pink carnations and fern completed her bridal finery.

The bridal coterie was headed by Sheree Vincent of Plymouth, sister of the bride, who was maid of honor, and Dan Pavelka of Belleville, the best man.

Wearing matching ensembles, the bridesmaids included Kris and Karla Buchanan of Ypsilanti; Terry Templeman, Debbie Kostelic, Lisa Flux, Roseann Colwell and Kim White, all of Belleville.

Newcomers on the scene --

There's a twin bill playing these mid-autumn days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Robert Carrico of 48543 Willis Rd., Belleville. Anniversary forms available

For those marking wedding anniversaries with celebrations and parties, we have special anniversary forms to fill out. The questionnaires include all the pertinent information needed for putting a story together.

If you are planning to celebrate an anniversary and would like your friends to read about it in The Belleville Enterprise or The Romulus Roman, simply stop by our office at 116 Fourth St., Belleville or telephone the Suburban Living Editor, Lee Smith, at 697-9191 to have a form mailed out.

We will be happy to accept photographs if they meet with our specifications. Please include one if it's available.

There is no charge for this service.

Here's why

Your photo wasn't used?

If you're wondering why that photograph you sent in with your engagement or wedding story wasn't used, it was because it was not suitable for publication. Candid snapshots are not acceptable since they do not contain the sharpness and contrast needed for reproducing.

In order for a photo to be used with an engagement announcement, it should preferably be a head shot in wallet size. But if only a larger studio picture is available we can reduce it to fit one column.

We prefer not using pictures of couples for engagements although we will accept one if it was taken professionally and especially for the engagement.

Wedding photographs submitted can be either of the bride alone or the bridal couple but must be of professional quality — NO SNAPSHOTS. We will accept color pictures but ask that you please submit photos that are close-ups of the subject.

Your cooperation in choosing a good photo will result in your not being disappointed when your picture is not printed.

It's time to stop mildew

Eliminating the conditions that encourage the growth of molds is the best way to prevent mildew from forming.

"Warm, damp areas that are poorly lighted and ventilated offer ideal conditions for the growth of molds that cause mildew," says Anne Field, Extension family resource management specialist at Michigan State University.

"Eliminating the dampness, improving ventilation and giving certain surfaces special care will help control the growth of molds. It is important to stop mold from growing because it causes considerable damage — it can discolor leather, paper and fabrics, and even eat into fabrics, causing them to rot and fall apart."

In homes, molds that cause mildew grow on anything from which they can get enough food. Cotton, linen, rayon, silk, wool, leather, wood and paper are prime targets. Keeping closets, dresser drawers, basements and other areas as clean and dry as possible will help prevent mold from growing.

Musty odors are a sign of mold growth and should be eliminated as soon as possible. Musty odors usually disappear if the air is well heated and dried.

Controlling the causes of dampness will help to prevent the growth of mold spores, which are usually present in the air. The hot, humid weather that has plagued Michigan this summer makes controlling dampness difficult. Using dehumidifiers is one effective way to minimize dampness.

Venting clothes dryers to the outside and using exhaust fans when cooking, bathing or laundering also help remove warm, moist air from the house. On days when the outside air is drier than the air in the house, open windows when using fans to increase air circulation. Poorly ventilated closets get damp and musty during long spells of wet weather, and articles stored in them are likely to mildew. Improve the ventilation by opening closet doors, hanging clothing loosely so that air can circulate and using a fan to renew the air.

Never let clothing or other fabric articles lie around damp or wet. Soiled garments should be dry when put in the hamper. Air and dry garments and shoes damp from rain or perspiration before putting them in the closet.

After a shower, stretch out the wet shower curtain. It will mildew if left bunched together or stuck to the wall of the tub.

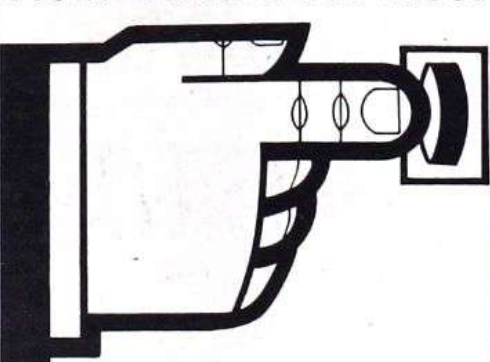

To absorb moisture from the air in closets and other enclosed areas, you can use certain chemicals. Silica gel, activated alumina and calcium chloride are available at some drug stores, building supply dealers, departments stores and hobby shops. Complete directions for proper use of these chemicals are listed in USDA Home and Garden bulletin No. 68, "How to Prevent and Remove Mildew."

To obtain a copy of this bulletin, send 25 cents for postage and handling to P.O. Box 550, Wayne, Michigan 48184 for your free copy. This bulletin gives specific instructions on preventing mildew in all types of materials throughout your home.

potpourri

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Although it wasn't the same as when three little girls tagged along, giggling and full of enthusiasm, our apple picking venture over the weekend (a first since our move to "the country") was a pleasant, rewarding experience.

Having learned of a good orchard (with attractive prices) between Tecumseh and Adrian, we took our containers, a golfball retriever and our warmly-wrapped bobs out Tipton Highway for our do-it-yourself project. Although there were no trees in sight when we pulled in, the head honcho provided us with a roughly-drawn map which led us down a narrow lane to the tiniest but most productive fruit-bearing copse we'd ever seen.

The ball retriever was excess baggage since the branches were so heavily laden we could often pick without even using the ladders which were provided.

Neatly trimmed paths through well-tagged, well-sprayed trees provided perfect specimens of Adam's downfall and turned our autumn quest into an ooh-and-ahh bit of dialogue. We just marveled over the clustered branches of Delicious, Spies, Romes, Jonathons and Mackintoshes. And the taste-testing that's part of the treat... crisp, cold, shiny red offerings which crunched and then oozed their juices as no store-bought apple has EVER done!

The fact that we were practically solo in the woods (just one other family to nod to) made us realize how wonderfully countrified we were; no big cities near enough to attract the madding crowd which often can turn a nice afternoon sour.

A couple bushels and a day later, well into applesauce processing, a thought crossed my mind as I scrubbed and sliced each perfectly shaped, non-bruised, non-wormy Jonathon - one for the "Happiness is" collection - the fact that "happiness is getting real quality for your time and money."

Half the fun of putting those gems through the food grinder this year was having three varieties with which to experiment. Of the Spies, Romes and Jonathons, the latter got both BG's and my vote for best in natural sweetness. Since we add no sugar to our sauce, that's the bushel that's now helping fill the freezer for future cakes, nut breads, sidedishes and desserts.

Now we're ready to get back and pick other types for another pie or two (the spies baked up deliciously!) And, of course, it wouldn't be fall if a batch of apple dumplings weren't produced! (Come on home, kids!)

Cool (spelled c-o-l-d) weather must agree with our good buddy and friendly insurance agent, Dick Wood, who was among the "die hards" (also known as "golf nuts") who defied the pre-winter elements Oct. 11 and played a full 18 holes that afternoon.

The wind, drizzle and cloudiness were so agreeable -- soideal -- that he was able to chalk up ANOTHER hole-in-one -- his THIRD! Using a 4-iron at Tecumseh Country Club's 175-yard 13th hole, he hit what he says was a "bad shot" only to find, after a fruitless search around the green, that the little white missile had found its way smack into the cup.

The fete was witnessed by Dick's bride and, Shirley, what on earth were YOU doing out there on such a rotten day?

Dick's other aces, by the way, were recorded at Lemontree and Don's Executive Course.

LULL IN THE CONVERSATION? TRY THESE BITS OF TRIVIA...

A healthy cheetah can sprint 34 yards in one second. But, despite its speed, it is not the fastest creature on earth. That honor goes to a member of the aviary family, the spin-tailed swift, which was clocked at ground speeds ranging from 171.8 to 219.5 m.p.h.

A caddy working in a professional golf tournament usually makes about five per cent of whatever the golfer wins.

The most valuable animals, in cash terms, are thoroughbred race horses. The most valuable zoo animal is the Giant Panda and the most valuable mammal exhibit is the Killer Whale.

The greatest power failure in history struck seven northeastern U. S. states and Ontario, Canada on Nov. 9 and 10, 1965. About 30 million people in 80,000 square miles were plunged into darkness.

The female record for conquering Mt. Everest's summit (29,028 feet) was set on May 16, 1975 by Mrs. Junko Tabei, 34, of Japan.

The largest egg of any living animal is that of the whale shark. One egg case measuring 12 inches by 5.5 inches by 3.5 inches was discovered in 1953 in the Gulf of Mexico. The egg contained a perfect embryo of a whale shark, 13.78 inches long.

Starting to watch the waistline and pay attention to the scales (so you can indulge come that big holiday a few weeks from now?) If you're leading a leafy life of lettuce, here are two very local dressings to put together. Not only do they help rescue you from excess poundage but they are a boon to the grocery budget.

SPICY FRENCH DRESSING

1 can (12 oz.) V-8 juice
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash paprika

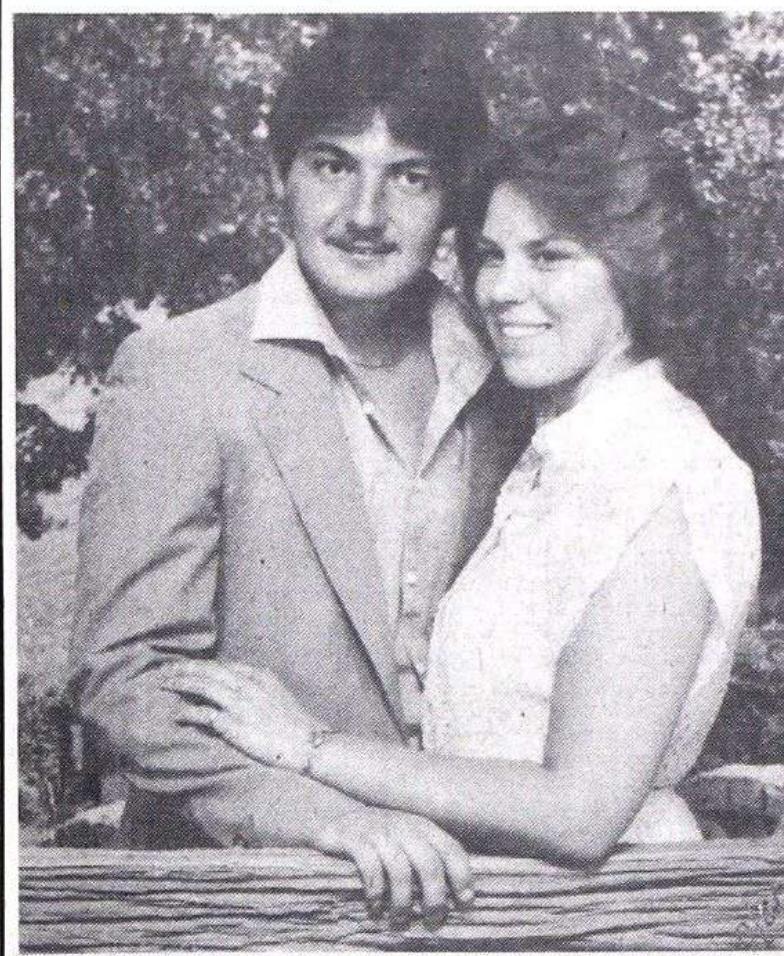

In blender, combine ingredients. Blend until smooth. Chill. Serve on salad greens. Makes about 1½ cups dressing with approximately 2 calories per tablespoon.

EASY THOUSAND ISLAND DRESSING

1 cup cottage cheese
1 can (10-1/2 oz.) condensed tomato soup
1 tablespoon India or sweet pickle relish
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Combine ingredients in a jar. Shake well before serving. Makes about 3 cups with 13 calories per tablespoon.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Mud and whitewash are the strange bedfellows of politics.

Wedding planned

"SOME COMPANIES LIMIT THE MEAT IN THEIR SAUSAGE. WE LIMIT THE FAT."

There's a good reason why Bob Evans Farms Sausage won't cook away in your frying pan like some other sausage does.

You see, at Bob Evans Farms, we limit the amount of fat in every ounce of sausage we make. So there's just enough to bring out the farm fresh taste.

That's why Bob Evans Sausage always cooks up so tender and delicious. Not greasy. And why it won't shrink to nothing in your frying pan.

And while some companies don't put the best cuts of pork in their sausage, we include all the choice fresh hams and tenderloins. Not just the trimmings.

So try Bob Evans Sausage. Because while we always limit the fat in our sausage, there's no limit on the taste.

Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum is offering a 1981 wall calendar, the first created by the world-famous museum complex.

The wall calendar features twelve line drawings of scenes in Greenfield Village by Margaret Papp McAlister, who has been with the Museum since 1933. McAlister was hired that year by Henry Ford while she was a high school student to teach pre-school in the Village's school system, and is still working in the complex.

Printed on a high quality stock, the 10 x 8½ inch, 12-month calendar is designed so the drawings of scenes in Greenfield Village may be removed for framing. The calendar is available at the Museum and Village gift shops for $3.50 or postpaid from the Henry Ford Museum Press, Dearborn, Mich., 48121 for $4.50.

Lawn, garden guide

Lawn and garden chores don't end with the first frost. Extension specialists at Michigan State University suggest a number of tasks are timely in October:

— Keep mowing the lawn as long as it keeps growing. The final cut on bluegrass or fescue lawns should leave blades about 1 to 1½ inches long.

— Rake leaves off the lawn at least once a week. If they get wet and mat on the grass, they can smother it.

— Plan to apply nitrogen to the lawn after the grass stops growing before the first snow. One to 1½ pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet applied in early to mid-November provides for good root development and a gradual spring green-up. Hold off fertilizing next spring until the end of May.

— To control broadleaved weeds, spray lawns with an herbicide on a warm, calm day in early October. Seeds are germinating now and young plants are relatively easy to kill. Spot treating next spring can take care of any you miss now.

— After the first killing frost, prepare roses for winter. Pile 8 to 10 inches of soil around the canes. Then tie the canes so the wind can't whip them, and cover them with straw or hay. Use additional soil, plastic rose cones or chicken wire to hold the mulch in place.

— Clean up fallen rose leaves and prune away dead, damaged or diseased canes to minimize next year's rose insect and disease problems.

— Remove dead or drying annuals and the tops of perennials from flower beds. They may harbor insects or disease organisms.

— After cool weather has set in but before the ground freezes, plant tulips, hyacinths and other spring-flowering bulbs. Choose a fertile, well-drained area not to close to house foundations or other sources of warmth. Bulbs tend to rot in moist soil. And they may perform poorly next spring if they are kept too warm this winter.

— After frost has killed the foliage, dig tuberous begonias, caladiums, cannas, dahlias and other tender bulbs and tubers. Let them dry for a few days before storing in dry sand or vermiculite at cool temperatures (45-50 degrees F).

— Remove and destroy all dead iris foliage and any iris plants severely damaged by insects or disease.

— Plant or transplant peonies and other spring-flowering perennials.

— Repot houseplants that outgrew their containers over the summer, and fertilize any that are still actively growing.

— If fall rains have been short, water evergreens thoroughly before the ground freezes. These plants will continue to lose water from their foliage during the winter, but the roots will be limited in their ability to replace it. Needles and leaves can be damaged or killed. Sending the plants into winter well watered can minimize the chance of injury.

— After leaves fall, deciduous trees and shrubs can be planted or transplanted. Mulch and water new plants thoroughly. Support large trees with stakes and guy wires to prevent the wind from whipping or uprooting them.

— Mulch young trees and shrubs with well rotted manure, straw, wood chips, leaves or peat moss. Mice may take shelter in thick mulch and feed on tender bark, girdling plants. Rabbits and other rodents may also damage plants, especially young fruit trees. A cylinder of hardware cloth placed around each trunk will keep rodents from gnawing on landscape plants and fruit trees. It must extend at least 1½ to 2 feet above the usual snow level to be effective.

— Trim dead, diseased or broken branches from shrubs and trees. Avoid other pruning of spring-flowering shrubs and trees now — you'd be cutting off next year's flower buds.

— Gather hickory nuts, walnuts and butternuts.

— Collect the raw materials for winter crafts projects. These might include nuts, cones, dried weed seed heads, milkweed pods, meadow grasses and other plant materials.

— Rake and destroy fallen leaves and fruits of apples and ornamental crabs to reduce the carryover of this year's disease and insect problems.

Belleville gridders upset Dearborn

Tigers woo .500 conference season

Mired in and around the cellar of the Suburban 8 Conference for the past seven years, Belleville gridders have an opportunity for the first time to finish with a .500 conference mark.

Coach Michael Colletta's Tigers will be out to do just that, even up their record, Friday night when they take on a listless Allen Park. Allen Park will host Belleville for the conference finale which will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

"We don't know much about them," said Colletta, referring to Allen Park. "They've won one of their seven games. In the past they have been really tough on us."

Colletta and his Tigers pulled one of the biggest upsets in the Suburban 8 this season as they stunned Dearborn, 10-7 for their second victory in the league. They did it before a homecoming crowd. Dearborn entered the game with a 4-2 record.

"It's a big win for us," Colletta said. "We needed it and everyone was excited about it. However, I know it may sound sort of strange, but I felt we have played better — and that's hard to believe."

Anxious moments

Labeling it one of his biggest victories of his career, Belleville sophomore coach Michael Colletta keeps his eyes glued to the action during his team's confrontation with Dearborn. Belleville upset the Pioneers 10-7 before an elated homecoming crowd, and it was the first time the Tigers have beaten their Suburban 8 Conference rivals in more than six years.

The Sports Meridian

Cream of the crop

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

We're trying to chase down how many kids in this area have been named to the coveted all-state football teams in recent years and we came up with a few who stand out clear — names like Belleville's Keith Simons, John Glenn's Dan O'Brien, Churchill's Matt Foster, Livonia Franklin's Jim Casey and Dan Quinn, and, of course, Plymouth Salem's Rich Hewlett.

There are many more, of course. But we didn't want to exhaust our memory because there stands before us one stonily faced, rugged prepgrider whose statistics tower above most others.

The young grider is Rick Rogers. He has put meaning into Wayne Memorial's offense and credibility to Wayne's boast that it has one of the finest team's in its history on the gridiron this season.

"I have not coached a finer ball player than Rick Rogers," says Coach Floyd Carter.

Rogers says little — he lets his playing do the talking for him. With two games left in his high school career, the solid 6-2, 210 pound running back needs 116 yards to become the first Wayne player to run for 2,000 career yards. He is shy 22 yards for 1,000 yards in a single season.

Rick radiates confidence every time he puts on a football uniform. He knows his teammates look up to him to lead and he doesn't shy away from that responsibility. Although he is a picture of grace every time he carries the ball, he knows that the painting is incomplete — there is so much more to learn.

But, in the light of what he has accomplished — 18 TDs this season along with (26 career TDs), 163 points scored during his high school career — Rogers is well on his way to setting Wayne records that will stand for many years to come.

And all the above is written with good reason — if Rick Rogers is not named to all-state teams, then it's time for the Panel to retire.

I believe I'm not a solitary voice in the crowd when I say that it would be difficult to find a more worthy candidate for all-state accolades than the granite-built back from Wayne Memorial.

On a slightly different but related subject, did you hear about the Belleville High School graduate who officiated two football games this year for his alma mater.

Several people in this area have discussed the "no-win" situation it places everyone in. For instance, a football official could be the most honest person in the world, but what if he makes some calls that decide a close game?

We feel that having a graduate come back and officiate his former high school's team is just not good at all and that it should not be repeated. What do you think?

Rick Rogers

Hostile reception

After hauling in a screen pass, Belleville's Greg Brinkerhoff (dark jersey) is greeted by a hostile Dearborn defender who cuts down the Tiger ballcarrier. Belleville came up with one of its best defensive efforts of the season to nail the visiting Pioneers. They'll go after Allen Park Friday night and a Belleville victory will assure them of a .500 conference record, their best mark in recent years.

Rockets rip Thurston, 21-12

Undefeated Stevenson is next for John Glenn

There is a distinct aura of glory in the air, and all Westland John Glenn has to do is go out and beat one of the finest Class A teams in the state this year to enjoy it.

Glenn clashes with the undefeated, top-ranked in Region 4, Livonia Stevenson Friday night at the Spartan stadium and if Coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets want to salt away some glory they'll have to hurdle the four-time Inter-Lakes Conference champ.

"Stevenson is a superb team," Coach Gordon pointed out. "Their 7-0 record and four straight championships in a tough league speaks for itself. And I don't think they've lost a conference game since 1975. "So this is the kind of competition that awaits us over there."

What do you have to do to beat them aside from putting more points on the board, coach?

"Mistakes — that's the first thing," Gordon replied. "You can't afford to make mistakes against a team like that because they'll capitalize on every one of them. Also our defense must be extremely ready. Stevenson can hurt you in so many ways."

Glenn received a bit of good news this week. The Rockets' leading rusher, Greg O'Neil, will be ready for action. O'Neil suffered a neck injury two weeks ago and didn't suit up for last week's 21-12 victory over Redford Thurston.

The victory enabled the Westlanders to finish third in the Northwest Suburban Conference.

North Farmington captured the 1980 championship with a perfect 5-0 record, followed by Redford Union (4-1), John Glenn (3-2), Garden City East (1-4) and Thurston (0-5).

Thurston made the Westlanders sweat for their victory. The Eagles got on the scoreboard first, in the opening quarter, however, Glenn came back with 7-pointers in each of the last three quarters to pick up the victory.

All three Glenn touchdowns were scored by Bob Green who dashed across the Thurston goal line from the 5, 2 and 4. Jon Johnston kicked all three extra points.

Glenn, who has now scored five TDs in the last two games, rushed for 74 yards in 17 carries. Fullback Frank Lannello picked up 55 yards in 11 tries while quarterback Rich Discher connected on 4 of 11 passes for 60 yards.

The Westlanders received outstanding defensive performances from Jeff Luke, who thwarted a serious Thurston threat with a pass interception. The Rockets also got a superb effort from nose guard Dan Perkins and Jeff Hanson in the secondary.

Romulus gridders end skid

Romulus abruptly ended a four-game losing streak at the expense of Oak Park, 14-12, but Coach Don Foley's Eagles won't have time to rest on their laurels.

"We'll be meeting a big and physical Dearborn Heights Annapolis team this week," Foley said, "and I'm sure they haven't forgotten the 21-0 shellacking we inflicted on them a year ago."

Foley said he looks for a "close game" with the Cougars, who lost a 7-0 decision last week to Oxford.

Scoreless the first quarter, Romulus grabbed a 7-0 lead in the second 12 minutes when quarterback Marty Knight culminated a 10-play, 74-yard drive with a 8-yard touchdown pass to Dale Eddings. Eddings made a diving catch of Knight's pass in the end zone.

Knight then sneaked over for the point after to put the Eagles up by 7 point. Also, in that drive Knight hooked up with his favorite target, Mark Schick, on two key pass completions.

Oak Park replied after the third quarter kickoff. The Parkers drove 65 yards in 11 plays and scored on a 9-yard run by quarterback Doug Frankel. However, Cliff Gocha's attempted for the extra point was foiled by the entire Romulus defensive line.

Romulus turned to its defense the rest of the game as Randy Champagne came up with nine solo tackles and three assists and linebacker Tim Summerfield recovered a fumble to kill an Oak Park Threat. Romulus also received an excellent defensive effort from Greg Webb, Jeff Wensko and Colin Durham who each accounted for fumble recoveries.

The Parkers nearly pulled the game out when they drove to the Romulus 17 late in the game but Matt Bossory managed to pounce on a fourth Parker fumble.

"It was a tough game for us," Coach Foley noted, especially since we lost Webb to an injury." The fullback-linebacker received a groin injury and is a doubtful starter for the Annapolis game.

Knight had another good game as the senior Romulus QB hit on 14 of 28 passes for 154 yards. Schick caught eight of those passes for 87 yards and now has 45 catches for 445 yards and two TDs for the season. Knight has lifted his total to 91 completions in 176 attempts for 865 yards and four TDs.

Romulus defense caused the Parkers to fumble seven times and the Eagles recovered five of those turnovers.

Rogers scores 4 TDs as Wayne rips Monroe

Don't blame Coach Floyd Carter and Wayne Memorial's gridders for looking over their shoulders Friday night when they take on Wyandotte. Carter and his Zebras will anxiously be waiting to learn the outcome of the Fordson and Lincoln Park game because a L.P. victory would give the local gridders a piece of the Great Lakes 8 Conference championship.

Lincoln Park will travel to Fordson on Saturday for the season's league finale. Fordson is undefeated while L.P. and Wayne each have one conference loss.

However, if Wayne should lose to Wyandotte, then it's all over for the Zebras.

"It's going to be difficult, I know, to concentrate on our game when you know that L.P. has a good shot at beating Fordson," Carter pointed out. "But our kids know the outcome of that game will mean nothing if we lose Friday night.

"And anything can happen in this game," Carter continued. "We have beaten people in the past that we had no business beating, and visa versa. We need to play good, solid, fundamental football at Wyandotte."

Wayne chalked up their sixth victory in seven starts at the expense of Monroe last week. With running back Rick Rogers scoring four of Wayne's five touchdowns, the Zebras earned a 34-7 Great Lakes 8 Conference victory.

Wayne got on the scoreboard early in the first quarter when Rogers broke loose on a 30-yard touchdown run which polished off a three-play series. But Monroe came right back at the Zebras and quarterback Jeff Barnes put together a 51-yard, 10-play drive that ended with his touchdown sneak from the one.

The Trojans also booted the extra point and with 3:51 left in the period they had a 7-6 lead.

However, that initial Monroe drive was to be their only touchdown of the evening. The Trojans rushed for a total of 51 yards in the game and 46 was accounted for in that first march. In their next 23 plays they picked up an anemic 4 yards.

After a scoreless second quarter, Wayne again took the lead in the third period when Rogers scored from 3-yards out and quarterback Rick Covault got the two-point conversion.

Ahead 14-7 as the third quarter ended, Wayne erupted for three touchdowns in the final 12 minutes of the game as Rogers again scored from 3 yards out. He carded his 18th TD of the season from the 7-yard line to cap a 38-yard drive in 13 plays with 2:51 left.

Matt Korte picked up Wayne's final TD, crossing the Trojan goal line from the 4 with 18 second left in the game.

"I felt we played a great second half," said Carter, and kids like Ken Taube, Bruce Rize, Jack Muncie deserve a lot of credit. Our offensive guard, Roy Buchannon, also did one heck of a job."

"We're going to need a similar team effort to beat Wyandotte," Carter added.

No surprises

Robichaud spoils Inkster homecoming

Although there were no surprises Friday afternoon at Inkster where a fired up Dearborn Heights Robichaud grid team buried the Vikings 26-8, an upset by River Rouge over previously undefeated Ecorse provided the Heights' gridders with a half of the Suburban Athletic Conference championship.

"Rouge did us a favor by beating Ecorse," said Robichaud head coach Bob Yauck, "that upset means we'll share in the championship with Ecorse. Both of us now have 3-1 records."

It is the third time in four years that Robichaud has either shared or owned the SAC title outright.

Robichaud played like a champ against their arch-rivals, Inkster, as it jumped out to a 12-0 lead before the Vikings scored a safety to make it 12-2 at halftime. The champs came back with a TD in each of the last two quarters.

Yauck said he felt that this was the best his offense had performed all year. He attributed the success to switching Tony Brisker, a defensive starter, to fullback, and moving fullback Kendrick Bond to tailback.

Brisker responded by rushing for 136 yards and one touchdown in 16 attempts, while Bond also scored a TD and piled up 72 yards on 11 attempts.

Inkster Coach Arnice James commented after the game "that Robichaud played us real tough defensively. We couldn't move the ball against them, so we went to the air and they gave us the short passes. We didn't get the bomb."

The Vikings averted the shutout late in the game when senior quarterback Kim Hammons hooked up with Ronald Gibson on a 12-yard

Spartans have say about title

Though they are out of the Tri-River title picture, Cherry Hill's Spartans could determine whether Taylor Kennedy will wear the football crown this year.

The Spartans, 3-3 on the conference season after edging Dearborn Heights Riverside 20-14 last Saturday, will clash with Kennedy Friday night. Kennedy ended Dearborn Heights Crestwood's 16-game conference winning streak 7-6 last week, and the two teams along with Melvindale, are atop of the league standings.

"Obviously if we can beat Taylor they could lose a piece of the title," said Cherry Hill Coach Jerry Pawloski. "And I feel we have an excellent shot at them. They are a big team and have been putting a lot of points on the board, but I feel our kids will give them something to think about."

Cherry Hill may have quarterback Sam Taylor suited up for the game. Taylor missed Saturday's action against Riverside because of a fractured arm. However, 6-4, 245-pound tackle-center Greg Evans remains on the doubtful starting list. He's ailing with stretched leg ligaments.

The Spartans won a "wild one" from Riverside which blew leads of 6-0 and 14-6 before crumbling late in the second quarter. Neither team got on the scoreboard in the last half although the Dearborn Heights gridders came within 10-yards of the Spartan end zone before Spartan Roosevelt Hunter killed the drive with a pass interception.

Riverside took the opening kickoff and marched 65 yards to get on the board, taking 7½ minutes to do so. After the ensuing kickoff, the Spartans answered with a 65-yard drive of their own with Mike Johnson scoring from 12 yards out. Johnson counted 52 of those yards as back-up quarterback used the speedy running back on six plays.

Riverside broke the deadlock thanks to a Spartan miscue, a midair fumble that was turned into a 55-yard touchdown return. The Rebels picked up the two point conversion to go up, 14-6, with seven minutes left until intermission.

Teschke went to work. He tried an over-the-scrimmage pass to Jeff Shephard who broke loose for a 40-yard touchdown run, then Johnson scored the two-point conversion to tie the game for the second time.

A Riverside gift in the form of a fumble late in the second quarter led to what proved to be the decisive touchdown. The Spartans recovered the ball at midfield and marched to the two where Teschke went into score on a quarterback sneak.

Riverside came back on two separate occasions to penetrate inside the Spartan 20 yard line, out on each occasion Spartan defenders, sparked by linebacker John Martin, and Gerald Lee, and tackle Bob Koszielicki managed to repel the enemy.

Johnson contributed 148 yards on 15 carries to lead all ballcarriers.

Going nowhere fast

Robichaud's Sidney Brisbane (15) who is usually seen with the ball as the Bulldog quarterback also got in his licks on defense as he humbles Inkster's Charles Coleman on this play. Inkster failed to generate any kind of offense against their fired up neighborhood rivals and lost this Suburban Athletic Conference matchup before a rain-drenched homecoming crowd.

Cross country duel

3 chase Northwest title

A year hasn't changed anything in the Northwest Suburban Conference cross country world.

A year ago three teams — Westland John Glenn, North Farmington, and Livonia Franklin battled it down to the wire and the Westlanders emerged with the coveted championship.

And, this week when the conference runners gather, the same three are tied for first place. The title will go to the team that emerges atop of the league meet.

"We're fired up and ready to go," commented Bob Holmes, Franklin coach. "North and Glenn will contest this one right down to the wire. We've all won four of our five league dual meets, so everything is riding on the outcome of this league meet."

Franklin wrapped up the league dual meet season with a 23-33 victory over Thurston. Senior Paul Coburn and Jeff Bristow gave the Livonians the 1-2 punch with Coburn posting a 16:09 to win it. Bristow's second place time was recorded as 16:35.

Franklin also received a fifth and sixth place respectively from Mike White and Chris Zimmer while Dave Gerado finished ninth.

In the meantime, John Glenn turned back Garden City East 20-39 despite a record-shattering performance by East's Mike Stapleton. Stapleton erased Coburn's course record of 16:03 when he toured the 3-miles in a fast 15:57.

Glenn countered with Pete Stephens leading four other Westlanders across the finish line. Stephens was clocked in 16:31 for second, while mates Tom Gibson, Randy Frank, Paul Davis and Ray Macika nailed down third through fifth places respectively.

"It should be a very interesting league meet," said Glenn's Jerry Szukiat. "I feel that the three teams that are tied for first place going into the championships know one another very well. And anything can happen in the finals."

In their annual sophomore meet with Wayne Memorial, Glenn had the individual winner, but little else. Gibson claimed first place with a run of 16:27, then Glenn's Gary Vallance (17:06), Matt Hathorne (17:24), Keith Kieszniewski, Ken Lamb, Neal Williamson and Joe Veloz crossed the finish line before Westlanders Roger Frank and Kevin Gorman.

Glenn had only three runners in the field.

At Grand Valley

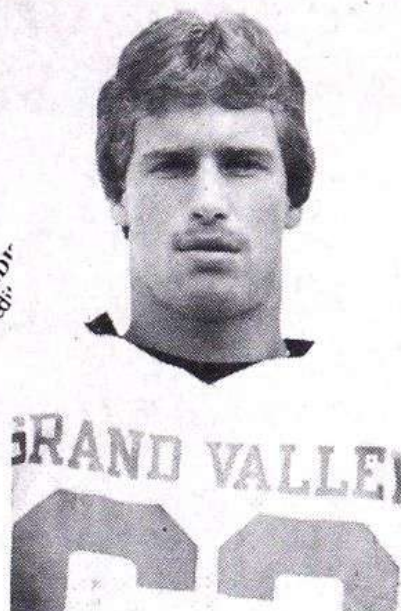

Svabik selected 'player of week'

Grand Valley State linebacker Paul Svabik of Westland became the second Laker player this season to earn Great Lakes Conference and NAIA District 32 defensive "Player of the Week" honors for his part in Grand Valley's 45-22 win over Saginaw Valley State.

The 6-2, 202 lb. junior from John Glenn was credited with eight first hits, eight assists, one pass break up, one touchdown saving tackle, two quarterback sacks, two fumble recoveries, and throwing the key block which enabled safety Pat Kelly of Redford to return a punt 44 yards for a touchdown as the Laker defense held the Cardinals to just 43 yards on the ground.

The Lakers are currently 4-2 on the season under head coach Jim Harkema.

On the run

Inkster quarterback Kim Hammons (10), one of the bright spots in a listless Viking offensive machine, shoots for yardage against Robichaud during Friday afternoon's Suburban Athletic Conference finale. Hammons and his teammates had their hands full as Robichaud avenged last year's 50-0 debacle with an easy victory. The victory, coupled by River Rouge's upset of previously undefeated Ecorse, provided the Dearborn Heights-based team with a piece of the SAC title. Both Inkster and Robichaud have tough assignments this week. Robichaud is scheduled to meet ranked and undefeated Saginaw Douglas MacArthur while the Vikings take on Clarenceville, a team that has won six of its seven starts this season.

North Farmington rules Northwest

"It was one of the worst beatings we have taken in many years."

That's how Livonia Franklin's Armand Vigna summed up his team's 28-0 loss to North Farmington Saturday afternoon. The defeat dipped the Patriots' record to 2-3 in the league and undefeated North managed to claim the Northwest Suburban Conference football championship.

"The score doesn't really reflect how bad it really was," Coach Vigna continued. "We were just terrible."

One bright spot for the Livonians was Jon Waling's performance. The senior running back chalked up 64 of his team's 84 yards rushing in nine attempts. Also, quarterback Chris Panzl got the ball to his receivers, unfortunately they couldn't hang on.

North leaped out in front 12-0 in the first quarter, then got a field goal in the second 12 minutes and bolstered its 15-0 halftime advantage by six and seven points in third and fourth quarters, respectively.

Franklin looked good, however, in its first drive when it piled up two of its six first downs, but from that point on the game was dominated by the champs. Doug Schulte scored with 4:43 left in the initial quarter and a pass from Jim Franchi to Dennis Kaufman with 24 seconds remaining gave North its second TD.

Steve Magyari's 31-yard field goal with 2:26 left in the second quarter accounted for the three-pointer, while Rick Roth teamed up with Jeff LaBelle on a 26-yard third quarter touchdown pass. LaBelle returned a Franklin punt 36 yards for the final TD.

Franklin will tangle with cross-town rival, Churchill, on Saturday at 2 p.m. on the Patriots' gridiron. Churchill is coming off of a 19-14 loss at the hands of league rival, Farmington Harrison.

"We really don't know too much about Churchill," pointed out Vigna. "I saw them play against Canton earlier in the season and they (Churchill) had an easy time of it."

Skaters go on scoring rampage

Although the season is only two weeks old, some players looked in mid-season form in the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League. Two players scored four goals each and eight others found the range for two apiece as skaters rattled the netminders over the weekend.

Jake's Lounge got its first win of the season by outskating Etronic 6-3. Jake's took the lead in the first period on one of two goals scored by Phil Cerne. Jim Lear checked in with two goals, his second goal capping off the game with 5:40 remaining.

Dave Milam and Dave Weaver tallied for one goal apiece. Rick Mullen scored Etronic's first goal early in the second period as Marv Borycki and Dave Roberts scored one goal each in the third period.

Terry Carley netted the first and last goals of the game between Little Bill's and Brock Builders', as Little Bill's earned its first victory of the season 4-2. Little Bill's took the lead early in the first period and maintained it as Don Middaugh and Gerry Bular accounted for the other two goals. Brock's two goals for the evening were scored by Vern Springer and Art Cazabon.

Ron Johnson was the hero for Johnson Carbonic as he scored once in the first period and three times in the second, his last two goals coming only 31 seconds apart. Johnson Carbonic secured a 6-4 win over the Jock Shop. George Motts and Norm Beasley scored for the winners in the first period before Ron Johnson took over.

The Jock Shop got on the scoreboard twice in the first period as Mike Villemure and Curtis Oger each scored.

Jerry Robertson started the third period with an early goal and Oger got his second tally for the night with 1:48 remaining. The action was rough and tough as 18 penalties were handed out during the game with Johnson Carbonic picking up 12 of them.

Benny's Pizzeria chalked up its second win in as many outings by skating past Tastee Freeze 4-2. For thesecond week in a row two players for Benny's finished the night with two goals; Rod Dittmar and Dave Zajac. Dittmar got a first period goal while his second tally came in the third period with 1:26 left on the clock.

Zajac clicked for his two goals in the third period — both within one minute.

Tastee Freeze tied up the score in the second p-eriod with Murray Peterson finding the net. Joe Soukup scored the other goal for the losers with 1:06 remaining in the duel.

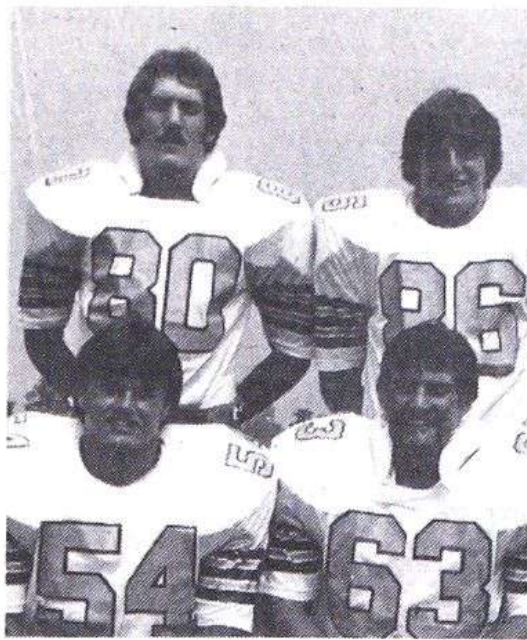

Gregg Piscopink and Joel Layne led Extra Point to a 8-6 victory over Futurama Engineering. Both players scored two goals as Pat Brown, Glenn Stevenson, Dave Fawkes and Jack Bockstanz netted single tallies for the winners. Futurama's Barry Anderson had an outstanding evening scoring two goals in each the first and second periods. Craig Averill netted the first goal of the game with only 17 seconds off the clock while Robert Eggers rounded out the Futurama scoring. Futurama led 6-4 through the second period but failed to score from that point on. Extra Point came back in the third period with four goals to take the game.

Over 30 hockey games are played Sunday nights at the Wayne and Westland rinks. There is no admission charge.

Looking ahead to Sunday, Oct. 26, Little Bill's Trophies will take on Tastee Freeze at 6:30 p.m.; Futurama will fun up against the Jock Shop at 8 p.m., and Jake Lounge plays Johnson Carbonic at 9:30 p.m.

All three contests will be played at Westland.

Over in the Wayne rink, Brock Builder's and Etronic will meet at 9 p.m., while Benny's Pizzeria will clash with Extra Point at 10:30 p.m.

WSU's area grid harvest

Three former ex-All-Area grid stars are contributing to the success of the Wayne State University season. The players are Dan Gotham (80), from Wayne Memorial; Bill Dye (86) from Westland John Glenn; Mark Grabowski (54), and Phil Emery (63) of Garden City East fame.

Tartars get help from area stars

Three graduates of the Wayne-Westland area high schools are currently playing and contributing to the football program at Wayne State under first year Head Coach Steve Fickett.

Two of the, Mark Grabowski and Bill Dye prepped at Westland John Glenn. Don Gotham graduated from Wayne Memorial and Phil Emery came to the Tartars from Garden City East.

Grabowski, a senior defensive tackle, has started for the last three years including this year. So far this season Mark is the leading tackler on the defensive line. Last year he finished first in tackles on the defensive line.

Freshman Dye has supplied adequate backup at outside linebacker for Western Michigan transfer Eric Manns and Tartar co-captain Brian Van Gorder.

Gotham is the starting tightend and is the tallest player on the Tartars at 6-6. He has been used sparingly as a pass receiver in his career. Catching 12 passes for 176 yards thus far. His longest pass reception has been 27 yards.

Emery, senior offensive guard is starting for his third straight year. Phil is an Academic All-American Candidate with a 3.5 GPA in Education and the quarterback of the Offensive line.

Over 30 hockey

Ten teams have assembled for the 1980-81 Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League which will underway this week at two area rinks. The league is in its seventh year.

There will be three new sponsors — Little Bill's Trophies, Benny's Pizzeria and Etronic — in the pack and all three can give the oldtimers some problems.

Two Divisions make up the "Over 30" league, each consisting of five teams. The "Berrington Division" includes Extra Point Bar & A-C Brock Builders, Little Bills Trophies, Benny's Pizzeria and Tastee Freeze.

In the "Bonkowski Division", the teams are Jake's Lounge, Futurama, Johnson, Carbonic, Etronic and the Jock Shop.

This year's schedule is made up of games, not including the playoffs, which will be held through-out March 1981.

NHL rules apply, with the exception of checking and slap-shots, which are not allowed. This makes for a lot of good skating, passing and finesse.

The action can be seen every Sunday at the Wayne Rink, (Howe & Annapolis) at 9 p.m. and 10:30 p.m..

When Robichaud and Inkster football teams clash, anything and everything usually happens. Last year, a heavily-favored Robichaud greeted Inkster as its homecoming foe and Inkster walked away with a 50-0 victory, and last Friday Robichaud reciprocated by spoiling

Inkster's homecoming, crushing the Vikings to earn a share of the Suburban Athletic Conference title.

They're third best in Great Lakes 8

After a crucial victory over Wyandotte, Wayne Memorial's girls' tennis team nailed down a third place finish in the Great Lakes 8 Conference this season. Members of Coach Jack Armstrong's team include: Laurie Brown, Kim Reighard, Anita Vega, Carolyn

North tankers show Glenn who's best in the Northwest

North Farmington, the reigning Northwest Suburban Conference girls' swim champs, powered past Westland John Glenn 96-76 in a key conference dual meet. The Westlanders could manage only three first places against the defending champs but swept the diving competitions behind the 1-2-3 performances of Shon Pilarski, Linda Gibson and Lynda Rajskub. Miss Pilarski's winning efforts netted her 169.9 points. Glenn's freestyle relay team made up of Sandy Martinez, Paula Taylor, Nancy Ostlund and Karen Scarborough came away with a victory. The foursome combined on a 4:20.0 finish. The Rockets also won the 500-yard freestyle event as Chris Johnston touched in with a 6:16.0 effort. The loss left Coach Debbie Sander's swimmers with a 4-3 over-all record as they prepared for this week's competition against an always-tough Belleville (Tuesday night) and league rival, Livonia Franklin (Thursday). The Westlanders will host Franklin in a 7 p.m. meet. It was a completely different story

Wyandotte whipped, 69-17

Wayne cagers set record

Wayne Memorial's girls basketball team put together another record-setting performance at Wyandotte as it crushed the Bears 69-17 for its seventh win in the last eight games. Wayne's pressing defense and the rebounding of junior forward Cheryl Trudell were the dominant factors in the first half as the Zebras built a 16-5 first period lead into a 34-9 advantage at the end of two quarters. The second half was much the same despite the fact that Coach Steve Schwartz pulled off the press. Wyandotte continued to turn the ball over against the switching Wayne defenses. Senior all-league forward Theresa Callegari led all scorers with 20 points, including 13 in the third quarter, and Trudell added four points to her first-half 12 to finish with 16. Wayne's two high-scoring forwards also dominated the boards in splitting 30 rebounds to pace the Zebras 55-25 edge in that department. Besides Callegari and Trudell, senior guard Cindy Dunn hit a season high 10 points and Becca

Schaffer and Deanna Leverenz led the reserves with eight and six points, respectively. "Even though we used the entire bench each quarter, all the forced turnovers gave us so many extra opportunities," said Coach Schwartz, "that we broke the record for most points in a game. We had just broke the old record last week in beating Lincoln Park 66-42, so those 69 points represent a new school record." The Zebras are now 7-4 overall and maintain their three-way tie with Fordson and defending champion Monroe in Great Lakes Eight play. All three teams are 5-1 after one round. Wayne plays host to Taylor Truman on Thursday, October 23, as the title chase enters the second round.

Tigers win swim opener

The Belleville Tiger Swim Club launched the 1980 swim season with a 299-205 victory over Willow Run. The victors claimed 11 first places in the medley and freestyle relays events. The Tigers had the best 8-and-Under 100-yard freestyle team with Michael Bird, Derek Reed, Scott Sikes and Brian Cantrell who turned in a 1:32.75, while in the same age group Brian Cantrell, Michael Bird, Jamie Cateneda and Derek Reed also took the 100-yard medley relay in 2:01.22. Karen Eller, Angela Buttigieg, Amy Middlebrook and Cindy Madowski posted a 2:05.3 in winning the 100-yard medley relay in the 8-and Under category. The Tigers received a winning performance in the 200-yard medley relay for 9-10 year olds thanks to Kim Plotzka, Cheryl Bird, Bambi Gross and Renee Riley who finished in 3:23.83. In the 200-yard freestyle relay for 11 and 12-year-olds swimmers, the Tigers went with David Traskos, Jeff Fancher, Greg Lynch and Eddie Ammon who had a 2:14.62.

Jennifer Schurr, Barb McManus, Teresa Weglarz and Reiko Snider gave the Tigers a first place in the 200-yard freestyle. Jeff White, Ben Griffith, Chris Gable and Damon Sulkey teamed up to win the 200-yard medley relay for 13 and 14 year old in a respectable 2:10.02, while in the same age group and event the Tigers placed first for the girls' event thanks to Paula Brendtke, Chris McManus, Tracey Bunnell and Courtney Samuels, (2:24.16). In the 13-14, 200-yard freestyle the gold went to Tigers' Ben Griffith, Karl Duda, Jeff White and Chris Gable who fashioned out the winning time of 1:53.35. Individual gold medals in this freestyle meet were awarded to Tricia Horrocks, age 8 and under, for her victory in the 25-yard freestyle (20.7); Reiko Snider, 1-2 year old girls 50-yard freestyle (32.1) and Chris Gable, 13-14 for a 27.06 in the 50-yard freestyle.

Defense was the name of the game when Belleville and Dearborn clashed Friday night in a Suburban 8 Conference confrontation. And the host, Belleville, emerged with a superb defensive performance to jolt Dearborn, 10-7, to record its second conference win of the campaign. If Coach Michael Colletta's gridgers can beat Allen Park they'll end the league campaign with a 3-3 record.

Unbeaten

Wayne breezes by Spartans

Unbeaten in its first seven dual meets after splashing Inkster Cherry Hill 125-39, Wayne Memorial's girls' swim team and Coach Jim McPartlin will turn their thoughts to Great Lakes 8 Conference swim competition on Thursday. The Zebras, an annual title threat, will open the league phase of the season at 4 p.m. in Dearborn against Fordson, a team that McPartlin's girls know they must beat for the title. "Although Monroe owns the title," McPartlin said, "we know that in order to be a title contender we will have to get past Fordson. They traditionally have fine swimmers in Dearborn." Wayne crushed Cherry Hill in an out-of-conference engagement, sweeping nine out of a possible 11 first places. The Inkster-based team eluded the shutout from first places thanks to a double-winning performance by Karen Trudeau who turned in a 2:32.7 in winning the 200-yard individual medley and posted the winning time of 1:07.2 for the 100-yard butterfly. Wayne received a double win from senior Sandy Burns who was clocked in 2:18.1 for the 200-yard freestyle and touched in with the winning time of 6:05.7 for the 500-yard freestyle.

Robichaud spoils Inkster homecoming

strike which capped a midfield drive.

Earlier, in the second quarter Inkster cashed in on Joe Kendal's alertness when he trapped the Bulldog quarterback behind the goal line for a safety.

Hammons went to the air for 31 passes and connected on 14 of them for 136 yards and one touchdown.

Robichaud got on the scoreboard on its second drive when Brisker sprinted 57 yards on a play which developed thanks to a key block by Henry Bond. The stocky 5-6 fullback then broke three tackles and dashed the distance.

The Bulldogs made it a 12-0 game early in the second quarter when quarterback Sidney Brisbane and Clyde Elba combined on a 71-yard pass-run touchdown play. Brisbane drilled a short pass over the line of scrimmage to the fleeing Elba who outran everyone to the end zone.

A misfired snap from center led to Robichaud's third quarter TD as punter Ted Dudley saw the ball sail over his head, picked it up and ran to his left. He then spotted Stephan Johnson in the clear and tossed the ball for a 30-yard touchdown.

"You got to give Ted a lot of credit," Yauck said. "Under pressure, he played heads up ball and turned a loss into a touchdown."

Bond later slipped off tackle to give the Bulldogs the two-point conversion.

Robichaud wrapped up the scoring with Bond's one-yard touchdown plunge, which he set up late in the fourth quarter with a 49-yard gallop to the 11. It took three plays — he carried all three times — before the tailback found his way over the Inkster goal line.

The Bulldogs' front four — Dave McIntosh, Dave Reid, Paul Green and Randolph Long — had, an outstanding game as they helped to contain Inkster ballcarriers to a mere 27 yards rushing. Bond, who doubled as a middle linebacker, accounted for 10 solos and five assists.

Robichaud will get a shot at Saginaw Doug MacArthur, a team that is undefeated and has been in the Class B state playoffs for the past two years. Although the Bulldogs can't hope to make the playoffs (they're 5-2 on the year) they could gain their niche in state recognition if they upset the Saginaw powerhouse. The two will meet 7:30 p.m. Friday in Saginaw.

In the meantime, Inkster has to contend with a Clarenceville team that has won 6-of-7 games and hasn't been scored upon for the last five games. The Vikings will hit the road to Clarenceville on Friday for a 7:30 p.m. nonleague game.

Normal's not bad, after all

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Not too long ago I bought a magazine which has been sitting on my coffee table waiting to be read and along towards morning this morning I read it.

I was waiting for the screech of the brakes in the driveway telling me that my kid was safely home and I could go to sleep.

In leafing aimlessly through the magazine a headline caught my sleepy eye, "Growing up normal can be bad for you."

Naturally I read it. After thirty-five years of trying to get kids to grow up normal, someone is now saying it's bad. All that effort of years might be wasted! Gruesome thought!

Larry is bad, the article said. Larry kicks his mom in the supermarket, but should Larry's mom whack that kid across the butt? Not unless she wants him to grow up normal, the thirty-four year old author wrote.

Well, I don't know how you feel about it, but I feel that anyone who has only thirty-four years tucked under his belt, and just two little kids barely out of wet pants doesn't have the foggiest about the real world of raising kids.

But then, I'm pretty open-minded and I remembered that at one time I, too, had lofty ideas about raising kids. Somewhere between the first and the sixth I just threw the ideas out of my head and went to it by the seat of my pants.

The young author said that when kids misbehave the parent should attempt to determine what the kid really wants the parent to say to him, and not just go whacking away.

He may have a point there. Take the time that one of my kids came home from school all excited about the annual 'cleanup, paint-up, fix-up' week that our town enjoys. He hitched up his britches and went racing out the backdoor, and I didn't hear a peep from him until I noticed our neighbor having a fit of apoplexy all over the alley.

And there was my little kid staring down at him with a dripping paintbrush dripping green paint all over the neighbor's red, red face.

Tucking the baby under the table where he could chew on the chair rungs, I flew outside where I leaned over to help the apoplectic neighbor. But he slapped my hand away and began to bawl.

"What's he bawling about?" I asked my little kid.

"I dunno," he answered. "I never seen anyone bawl when someone is just helping him get cleaned up and painted up."

"Painted!" my neighbor exploded. "Painted? He's smeared the whole damn place with that filthy green paint. You'd better get him out of here, because I'm going to kill him...kill him...kill him."

Naturally I grabbed my kid, paint and all and lugged him out of the killer's reach.

"What possessed you?" I asked calmly enough, and at that point would have probably earned our young author's blessing...if he had been born yet. But then the kid

Pets and Animals

By STANLEY E. BARTKIEWICZ, D.V.M.

Bartz Animal Hospital
Canine Distemper is caused by a virus.

The signs of Distemper depend on what area of the body is involved. Invasion of the respiratory system causes a pus-like discharge from the eyes and nose, with sneezing and coughing. Invasion of the digestive system results in vomiting and diarrhea.

Invasion of the nervous system may involve a twitch, convulsions, or paralysis. With the infection, the body temperature increases then decreases for a few days then increases again. Depending on when the temperature is taken, it may be normal or elevated.

Distemper may infect any aged dog. Puppies have less resistance to the disease and contract Distemper more often than adult dogs. Adults more often get the nervous form of Distemper. Once an animal is showing symptoms of Distemper, it must fight the virus by itself. Supportive medication can be given such as fluids, antibiotics, and anti-diarrheals; but the animal must be strong enough to fight off the infection by itself.

The odds are not in favor of the dog getting better and many do die. If the animal does survive, it is permanently affected by the virus in some way. This can be as minor as a twitch or as severe as paralysis.

Dogs may be exposed to the virus by just breathing the air. The virus can be airborne, carried on things, or spread directly by the infected dog. Humans cannot be infected with Canine Distemper but can carry the virus on their clothing if contact is made.

The only protection your pet has from this disease is a vaccination. The vaccine can be begun as early as six weeks of age. Puppies need a series of vaccinations. Adults need a yearly booster. For your pet's safety, be sure that its distemper vaccination is current.

The vaccination does not change the animal's temperament. There is usually no reaction to the vaccine except for local, short-term pain. Sometimes the dog will be less active that day and possibly the next, but normal activities are usually seen within a short-time period.

Fixing it up the developing process.

Stop bath is a diluted solution of acetic acid. A hardener is sometimes used in the stop bath to prevent the swelling of the gelatin (film base). Thorough agitation for about 30 seconds will be sufficient time in the stop bath.

The fixer: After you have developed and stopped your negatives you must use a fixer. The fixer is used because the emulsion contains both image and the unexposed and undeveloped silver halide crystals.

Usually only about 25 percent of the silver halide salts are reduced to metallic silver during the developing process. There are two reasons why the unused silver salts should not be left in the emulsions:

1) "If the unexposed and undeveloped silver halide salts remain in the negative they will, with time, darken as they are exposed to light and consequently render the developed image useless."

2) "Although the composition of the unexposed and undeveloped silver halide is of salt crystals, they nevertheless have some opacity and this would obscure the developed image."

With this in mind we must treat the film in a solution that will dissolve the sensitized and undeveloped crystals yet maintain the developed image. This is called "fixation".

The fixer is made of a solution of a chemical, called thiosulfate. This solution is sometimes referred to as "hypo". The hypo solution, without adding any other chemicals, is capable of fixing the image.

Using a solution of just thiosulfate is not entirely satisfactory. We must use the other chemicals with the thiosulfate to help it perform its function more efficiently.

Chemicals such as acetic acid and sulfite are used in some formulas, alum is used as a hardener and boric acid is used to increase the life of the fixing bath. Five to ten minutes in a freshly prepared fixing bath should do it for most films.

Next week let's look at the negative and how to spot any defects in it.

By DON GREEN

The Stop Bath: After the film has been developed using the manufacturer's recommended developing agent, time and temperature, we will need two stop the developing process. An easy way to do this is to use an acid rinse or short stop.

This will neutralize the developer that has been left on the film from

Life in a slow lane By MONA GRIGG

There's a fight going on in Detroit over whether or not a homeowner has a right to cover his home with aluminum trim. In these days of "Clean up, fix up", what on earth would prompt a governing body to deny the request of a man willing to spend his own money to make his home more comfortable?

The problem is that said home is in a designated historic district. The Historic District Ordinance decrees that said homeowner cannot change a hair on the exterior of his own home without the express permission of the board.

To compound the problem further, the man moved into his house a full two years before the designation took place. He thinks that fact alone should unbind him from any rules and regulations.

The board claims that as long as he chooses to reap the bounty of the historic designation (prestige, higher real estate value, low-interest home improvement loans, and possible tax breaks), he must also then learn to live within the tenets of the ordinance. In short, he must take the bad with the good.

He thinks the bad outweighs the good. True, he likes living there. He loves his 24 room house. But he doesn't like his leaky roof or his annual $4800 heating bills. He could solve all that, he says, by installing storm windows over his 12 x 12's, and by replacing the rotting wood trim with non-authentic but forever pristine aluminum.

The Historical Commission gags at the thought of storm windows and aluminum trim. It not only messes up the architectural integrity, they say, it also most assuredly wasn't done in the old days.

Never mind that neither was central heating or electric lighting or even television antennae done in the old days, one has to draw the line somewhere. Even if it is a purely arbitrary line.

So what does all this mean?

Just last week, the historical commission in Westland co-sponsored a conference on historical preservation, where these very issues were discussed. Almost all of the communities covered by this newspaper were represented — and they are all beyond just talking about architectural preservation, they are ready to do something about it. Namely, setting up a Historic District Commission.

Westland, for instance, is just beginning a survey of all the pre-1940 houses and building in their town, to decide which of them should carry a historic building designation. Once the survey is finished, a permanent historic preservation commission will be appointed by city council. Then, once the ordinance is written, the commission will routinely monitor, through the building department, any changes being planned for the exteriors of the designated buildings.

If the commission should decide that the changes are not in keeping with the original designation, they will be within their rights to request modification. They will have that power.

There are good and bad things about giving people power. The good thing is that they can then protect victims from other "powers" in times of need. The bad thing is that people with power so consistently abuse it. They tend to make victims of the very people they were put in power to protect. As in the case of the Detroit Historic District Commission.

The Westland group, on the other hand, is taking the position that an effective preservation commission uses its power not to protect the historic building from its owner, but rather to protect the owner (and therefore the building) from outside elements making it hard for him to maintain and preserve.

They see themselves as a service agency, ready to assist and educate the owners of historic dwellings in preserving the integrity of the building, rather than as a dictatorial body ready to pounce on him for painting his front door purple.

But make no mistake, they still will have that power.

Since this is the first ordinance of its kind in the City of Westland, great care is being taken in the wording of the document. There should be no question as to what the commission can or cannot do, so that future appointed commissioners cannot abuse the intent.

Water rates are going up

Belleville residents will find their water bills a little higher beginning with the January 1, 1981, billings.

Faced with court-ordered increases in the water rates to the city of Belleville by the city of

Detroit and increases mandated by Wayne County for Belleville sewer services, the Belleville city council took action Monday night which will hike the base rate for the first 10,000 gallons of water usage from $12 per quarter to $12.60 per quarter.

Those water customers using more than 10,000 gallons will see their rates increased by 10 cents per 1,000 gallons of water used over the base figure.

After considerable discussion of alternative rate structures, the council decided to keep the sewer charge at its present rate.

Councilmen pointed out that there had been no increase in the base rate since 1976, although the sewer costs charged the city by Wayne county had been increased in that period of time.

The new rate structure was adopted after assurances that the city water and sewer funds would remain solvent with the adopted rate structure allowing the bonded indebtedness to be paid off while still leaving a cushion to maintain the system in proper repair.

The federal court mandated increase in water rates affects all the municipalities purchasing water from the city of Detroit in the southeast corner of the state. The rate to the city of Belleville under the court order was increased 56 percent.

The action on increasing rates came after the council went through the city audit report submitted by Neil Loney.

Loney told the council that the audit indicated that the city financial records were in good shape. There were no recommendations for changing bookkeeping procedures or adding of auditing controls.

"The city's system of bookkeeping and controls is to be commended," he told the council.

What's That Sound?

By STEVE O'LEARY

The Look rates among best of local rock and roll bands

The Look is more than simply one of the better rock and roll bands in the area; they may well be the best. And when onstage, the inevitable question the Look asks is "We're gonna rock, how 'bout you?"

But the thing is, by the time the band gets around to asking it, their infectious brand of pop-rock and roll already has the crowd on it's collective feet, dancing like there's no tomorrow.

But of course, there is a tomorrow, and it's a time that the Look is anticipating greatly. See, the band has just recently finished recording their debut album down in Alabama with veteran producer Johnny Sandlin at the control boards.

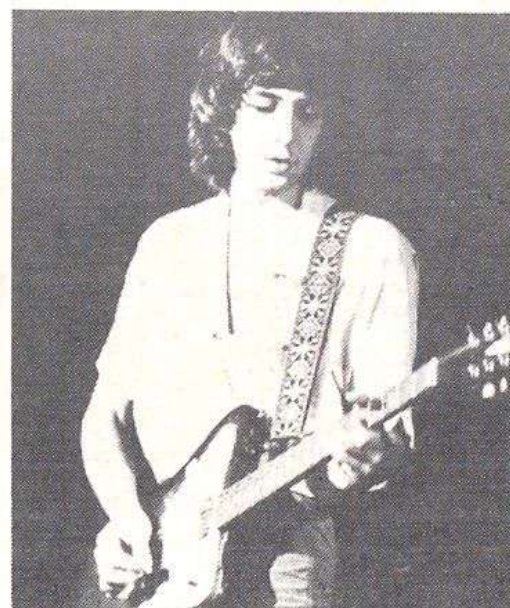

When I asked vocalist Dave Edwards about the seemingly strange match up of the Look, a straight-ahead rock and roll band, with Sandlin, best known for his work with southern groups like the Allman Brothers, he pointed out that his (Sandlin's) experience would help, as he's appeared on more than a hundred albums. He added that Sandlin wanted to get into producing northern rock bands.

From what I've heard of the tapes, the team-up was a success, and that's all that matters in the end. The tapes are currently making the rounds with the industry A & R people, and a few labels — two of them major — have expressed much interest in adding the Look to their roster of rising young bands.

You've probably already heard the Look on the radio, since the Detroit FM stations have given a bit of air time to "We're Gonna Rock (How 'Bout You?)" and "Do You Want Me To," both of which have met with a lot of positive listener feedback.

Dave Edwards

Randy Volin

Photos by Steve O'Leary

But it's in concert that the Look really shines, where the band has so much fun that it's impossible for you not to. While Dave Edwards demonstrates his excellent vocal abilities, guitarists Randy Volin and Sammy Warren trade riffs like they were baseball cards. Meanwhile, the rhythm section of Rick Cochran on bass and John Sarkisian on drums more than amply hold up the bottom end of the band's excellent original material. Every now and then though, the Look throw in an obscure cover version, most notably "Down On The Bay," originally done by the Move (of "California Man" fame) and "River Of Love," a great song by the little-known (and now sadly defunct) Sensational Alex Harvey Band. Both of these tunes will have you up and jumping around, as will the Look's own songs, like the tongue-in-cheek "How's That Treat In Your Mouth Babe," a rather ambiguous pseudo-sexual number that's a lot of fun, as well as being great to dance to.

Just watch Volin vaulting around the stage, miming and mugging his way along a la Cheap Trick's Rick Nielson, acting as the perfect foil for Edwards' audience-relating vocal antics. Like I said earlier, they're having so much fun that you do too.

If you've never seen the Look, here's your chance. If you have, you'll no doubt be on hand Thursday and Friday nights, when the band appears at the Studio Lounge in Westland (call 729-2540 for details.) Like they say, They're gonna rock. How 'bout you?

'Elephant Man' based on human dignity

By J.T. YURKO
Special to Playtime

THE ELEPHANT MAN, from Paramount Pictures. Directed by David Lynch. Written by Christopher DeVore, Eric Bergren and David Lynch. Starring John Hurt, Anthony Hopkins and Sir John Gielgud. Rated PG.

It should be stated at the outset that this movie has no connection with the Broadway play of the same name except for the fact that both this movie and the play tell the story of Mr. John Merrick, a horribly disfigured man living in England during the Victorian era.

Although there are plans to convert the Broadway play into a film, I have doubts that it will ever come to fruition on the big screen, as this film will be hard to top.

Merrick led a tragic life, being outcast by nearly everyone who saw him because of his bizarre appearance — the growths of tissue covering much of his body, the deformation of the right arm and foot, and especially the enlargement of the head for which he drew the title of "The Elephant Man." Shunned by society he could exist only as a freak in a side show, put on display and ill-treated by his "owner."

The fact that Mr. Merrick was able to retain some form of dignity came about through the encouragement of Dr. Frederick Treves who takes him out of the freak show and provides him with a decent place to live and plenty of care if not a cure.

Anthony Hopkins portrays Dr. Treves, and there are other solid performances from Sir John Gielgud and Wendy Hiller as well as Freddie Jones as "Bytes" who exploits Merrick's condition in the freak show.

But it's clear that they all surround the central performance of John Hurt in the title role. Hurt had to undergo four hours of make-up each day, and because he could not eat with the make-up, the shooting schedule had to be arranged so that he would be under the camera every other day.

Director David Lynch has created an atmosphere mood piece which is a remarkable achievement for only his second film and first for a major studio. His choice of black and white film perfectly suits the harsh subject matter of a smoky, steamy England with its growing industrialization.

In the opening and closing sequences Lynch overplays the industrial connection and goes off on a surreal tangent that is more confusing than illuminating, but again it reinforces the tone.

As for the Elephant Man himself, although he states that "I am not an animal, I am a human being," he never quite becomes as sympathetic a character as he is meant to be. We don't learn enough about his human nature.

He goes from a virtual illiterate to a society gentleman in a cinematic instant, and begins to spout polite aristocratic dialogue.

Partly based on Ashley Montague's "The Elephant Man: A Study in Human Dignity," the film still remains a haunting reminder that dignity is of the soul.

Energy supplies 'more than adequate' for recreation

Despite dire predictions by some government officials and futurists about energy availability, supplies will be more than adequate to meet the recreational needs of millions of Americans for at least the next two decades. Forthcoming developments in energy supply and usage — such as increased incentives to find new sources, shifting use from petroleum to alternate energy forms, use of more fuel efficient vehicles and equipment, and increased conservation practices — will result in ample and affordable fuel for recreational purposes for the remainder of this century.

These are among the major findings of study of an overview of energy availability and utilization for recreational use conducted by the Hudson Research Institute. The study was commissioned by the American Recreation Coalition (ARC).

The 60-page report, entitled "Energy and Recreation," addresses two basic areas of the U.S. energy picture: energy availability, and energy use in the near and mid-term future, with emphasis on recreational requirements. These requirements form two general categories: 1) direct fuel use by recreational equipment, and 2) indirect fuel use such as travel to and from recreational areas and fuel used by the operation of the leisure attraction.

Published in book form, the study contains 22 tables and figures and makes extensive use of statistics. Based upon credible projections of supply, demand and price, "Energy and Recreation" concludes that there should be more than an adequate supply of energy in the future for recreational use. Direct fuel use by recreational oriented vehicles (such as snowmobiles, motorcycles, recreation boats, off-road vehicles, and Recreation Vehicles) was shown to be only three to four percent of the total fuel quantity used by all motor vehicles, while 33 percent of all automotive driving is associated with recreation.

The report notes that a lingering effect of the Arab oil boycott and the Iranian cutoff is that many individuals are uncertain about future fuel availability for such actions as participation in the recreational activity of one's choice. Recreational activities are among the first affected by real or imagined fuel shortages.

Government agencies usually attempt to limit recreational activities as a symbolic, short-term response to a shortage. Individual recreationists often limit their immediate activities based on their view of the fuel situation, a view often caused by government actions or lines at local gasoline stations. In an effort to help set the fuel availability record straight, the American Recreation Coalition commissioned an impartial, in-depth research into present and projected recreational fuel needs.

Because recreational energy needs are proportionally small, the threat is not energy related, but political. The research study states that "the combination of resistance to recreation-oriented vehicle use in many area, coupled with the tendency on the part of bureaucrats to consider recreation and leisure-time activities non-essential when energy crunches develop is a far greater threat than non-availability (of energy) itself."

The recent leveling of gasoline prices, passage of legislation promoting a national synthetic fuels industry, and the ability of oil companies to stockpile vast quantities of reserve petroleum supplies follow the price-supply predictions made in "Energy and Recreation." The study states that fuel will no longer be cheap in the pre-1973 sense, but it will not be expensive relative to inflation and dollar valuation adjustments.

ARC is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization of more than 60 public interest groups, trade associations, businesses, clubs and other entities from throughout the country which are interested in a wide variety of recreational and leisure-time activities.

Single copies of "Energy and Recreation" can be purchased for $5.95 (includes postage and handling). Copies and membership information are available from the American Recreation Coalition, 499 S. Capitol St. SW, Suite 408, Washington, D.C. 20003.

Four members of the Romulus Isshinryu Karate Club recently won championships in their divisions at a karate tournament held near Grosse Pointe. The competition, called "Challenge of the Warriors," featured students from five states. Romulus winners were Jonathon Williams (left),
